

Taft's Death May Change Course of Future History ... His Loss Makes Eisenhower's Task More Difficult ...

Senator Robert A. Taft's death will have a chain reaction of political effects that may well change the course of history in the years immediately ahead.

1. It will make President Eisenhower's task far more difficult and jeopardize his prospects of obtaining congressional approval of his program.

2. It will improve Governor Thomas E. Dewey's chances of achieving the Republican Presidential nomination in 1956, if Eisenhower stands by his present intention of not seeking a second term.

3. It will mean new leadership and possibly a new political philosophy within the Republican party, whose chieftain for more than a decade—except when it came to nominate its candidate for the Presidency—was Robert A. Taft.

Rich Not To Be Candidate for Alderman

Alderman Paul S. Rich, of Ward 7, announced this week that he would not be a candidate for reelection to the Board of Aldermen this year. Rich, who has served on the Board for the past four years, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Representative from the Fourth Middlesex District, which includes Wards 1, 2, 3 and 7 of the City of Newton. A special election to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Christian A. Herter, Jr., is expected this fall.

In making his announcement, Alderman Rich, who has served on Public Works, Legislation, Street Traffic, Off-Street Parking, Ward Lines, and Kendrick Fund committees since becoming a member of the Board, issued the following statement:

For the past four years I have had the pleasure and the opportunity of serving the citizens of Newton, on their Board of Aldermen. During that time, I have come to know what Newton people demand of their representatives at City Hall in the way of sound and proper management of local government. The experience of knowing the latest and up-to-date feelings of the citizens, on many phases of government, together with the keen interest I have maintained in honest and efficient public service, has prompted me to the challenge of bringing the views of Newton people to the State Legislature. What can be done in the way of honest, sincere and economical government on a local level, can also be furthered at the state level.

I wish to thank the citizens of Newton and particularly those of Ward 7 who have so loyally supported me in the past, and my hope is that my accomplishments in behalf of the people of the North side of the city have justified the confidence they have twice shown me.

More than 400 people witnessed the annual Red Cross Demonstration at Crystal Lake Sunday, staged by a large number of children under the direction of Miss Claire McCarthy, swimming director.

Miss McCarthy gave a resume of the Water Safety Program and announced that all classes will continue until August 21st and that the adult classes will continue on Tuesday evenings from 6 to 7 and 7 to 8.

Speakers on the program were William Falconer, Chairman of the Newton Chapter, American Red Cross, who welcomed the parents and friends of the children and complimented Miss McCarthy and Recreation Director C. Evan Johnson as well as the crew of instructors and lifeguards at Crystal Lake for the wonderful work they are doing.

Howard Whitmore, Jr., Vice Chairman of the Newton Red Cross, and a member of the Recreation Commission of the City of Newton, stressed the importance of the Red Cross Water Safety Program by relating his experience in learning to swim while he was head of the Water Safety Program at the Naval Officers Training School in Florida. He particularly brought out the fact that it was most instrumental in saving the lives of a great number of men during the war.

To Take Part In Services at Rindge, N. H.

For the ninth consecutive year 50 members of the Highland Glee Club of Newton will journey Sunday to the Cathedral of the Pines in Rindge, N. H., to participate in the vesper service. Last year over 5,000 visitors filled the beautiful open-air memorial to the memory of Lieut. Sanderson Sloane, USAF, and heard the chorus sing before the Mt. Monadnock scene.

The invocation and sermon will be given by the Rev. Arthur Bradford of Providence. The club director, D. Ralph Maclean, will conduct the men's chorus in a program of specially selected anthems, including "The Green Cathedral" by Carl Hahn, and Bertram F. Whipple, a member of the glee club, will be at the organ.

The annual pilgrimage of the club with their families and friends is becoming traditional not only for their singing performance at Vespers but also for the early gathering to picnic and

Miss Dorothy Johnson Elected Vice-Pres. of Girls' Nation

Another honor has come to Newton. Miss Dorothy Eleanor Johnson, pretty Newton High School senior-to-be with a flair for making friends, was elected vice-president Tuesday of Girls' Nation at Washington.

Miss Johnson, one of the most popular girls in the high school, last year was voted "friendliest" of her class for the school year book. She is the daughter of C. Evan Johnson, recreation commissioner of the city, and Mrs. Johnson of 9 Proctor street, Newtonville.

Winning high elective offices is getting to be an old story to Miss Johnson. Earlier this summer, she was chosen governor of the Girl's State session held at Bridgewater State Teachers College. It was here that she was chosen one of two Massachusetts girls to represent the commonwealth at the Girls' Nation.

In May, she was elected vice-president of the Newton High School Associates, a student government organization.

Her father, a former teacher at the high school from 1936 to 1947, proud as punch about her success, said last night that she is very active in school activities.

She is a member of the Orange Shield, a Newton High volunteer group which tries to establish a standard of conduct for students and to achieve co-operation with school regulations. She was a cheer leader last year in her junior year and a member of the class softball team.

Last fall Dorothy was one of 30 Newton High students who went to Idaho Falls in an exchange arrangement with students there. An accomplished pianist, she has studied for nine years at the Ail Newton Music School and last year was awarded a scholarship.

Weston, Other Communities Enter Protest

After weeks of speculation and controversy, announcement has been made by the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority that the eastern end of the highly-publicized $200,000,000 cross-state road, planned eventually to be the "backbone" of the Massachusetts highway system, will be at Route 128 in Weston, at the Newton line near Nickerson Field.

This decision climaxes months of stormy protests on the part of citizens along the preliminary outlined routes and indicates success on the part of Newton and Brookline residents in averting the superhighway from their doors. Weston, Fitchburg and other communities, however, are not too pleased over the announced route and intend to protest.

Previously plotted routes would have brought the road into Boston just beyond the Brookline line, or within a short distance of Watertown square. This would have necessitated considerable land takings in the heavily populated communities of Newton, Brookline, Wellesley and Watertown.

The Weston origin will require land takings in less densely populated areas of Weston, Framingham and Wayland, officials revealed. In addition, a minimum number of homes and businesses will be affected by the present plan. Traffic experts have told the Turnpike Authority that the Weston plan will eliminate any possibilities of traffic bottlenecks in the Boston area.

Present plans now call for starting the toll road at Weston.

If You Own Property Jointly with Another

Where husband and wife or any two or more persons hold property in certain forms of joint ownership, they get the benefit of attractive legal and practical advantages.

Yet, taxwise, joint ownership may be costly. The death of one joint owner may force the survivor to pay heavy estate tax assessments or capital gains taxes. The creation of joint ownership sometimes involves a Federal gift tax.

If you have entered into joint ownership without finding out what tax liabilities might result, check with your lawyer now. Joint ownership may be advantageous for you; on the other hand it may be costly. Your lawyer can tell you.

Animals Invade Playgrounds as Field Day Displays are Prepared

Dozens of cats, dogs, horses, and even pigs are beginning to gather at many of the city's playgrounds as a result of the Boy's Crafts program. Door stops, tie racks, book ends, and magazine racks are the popular articles made by the "small fry" in preparation for their individual field day displays.

The basis of the craft program is woodworking where the youngsters learn the fundamentals and skills involved in the use of simple hand tools, the primary objective is to develop a proper use of leisure time which invariably leads to a useful hobby. In the meantime the children absorb cutting and finishing techniques. A wide range of projects is available to fit the needs, abilities, and interests of all age levels.

In addition to wood craft, instruction is provided in art metal, leather, plastics, and casting clay, enabling the youngsters to make ash trays, bracelets, belts, key cases, wallets, figurines, and a wide variety of similar items.

Classes are usually conducted three sessions a week under the guidance of the playground instructor — one or part of these periods being conducted by the Boys' Craft supervisor, Harry W. DeRusna.

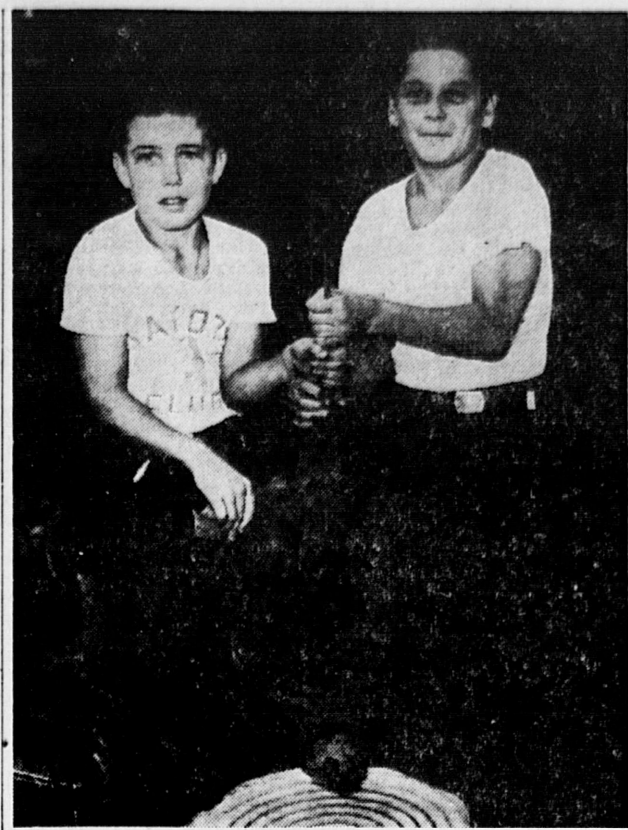

It is not possible to provide such instruction at all of the City's thirty playgrounds. The program is popular, and each year new ones are being added in an attempt to comply with increasing demand. The following ones have active programs going on throughout the eight week season: Newton Center, Newton Highlands, Newton Upper Falls, Emerson, Newton Lower Falls, Angier, Richardson, Cold Spring, Franklin, Eden Avenue, River Street, Wellington, Horace Mann, Carr, Hawthorne, Stearns, Boyd, Burr, Auburndale, Pierce, Williams, and Thompsonville.

All parents are urged to attend the local field day to be held in their areas to see for themselves the interesting and varied activities that are provided for Newton's children. Your interest in their work will add much to the pride that they feel in their local playground.

What Car Belongs Here?

Not many people would hesitate in naming the car they feel belongs in that inviting driveway.

It's the entrance to a fine American home, with a tradition of gracious living behind its handsome pillars—and the car which so obviously belongs before it is a Cadillac.

But here is a fact which it is important to remember—a Cadillac likewise belongs in the driveways of millions of other American homes which are far more modest than the beautiful structure shown in the illustration above. For it is practical, as well as thrilling, to own a Cadillac.

Listen, if you doubt it, to these amazing and significant facts:

—there are twenty-two models of other makes of American motor cars which actually cost more than the lowest-priced Cadillac!

—a Cadillac will actually run farther on a gallon of gasoline than numerous cars which are built and sold primarily for economy!

—a Cadillac is so dependable and long-lived that it is just about as economical to service and maintain as any car you could buy.

—and, finally—according to authentic used car evaluations—a Cadillac may be expected to return a greater percentage of its cost at the time of resale than any other car built in America.

In view of these significant facts, don't you think you should consider a Cadillac for your driveway? Whether you live in a mansion or a house designed for easy living—a Cadillac belongs.

You can buy a Cadillac for prestige and glamour—or you can buy it for economy and common sense. And whichever you buy it for, you'll get all four.

Better come in and see us today. We'll gladly give you the facts and a demonstration.

Political Overtones

President Eisenhower, who defeated Taft for the Republican Presidential nomination just 13 months ago after a bitter, tense struggle, will feel the Ohioan's death most keenly, and like most will be privately worried as to what will happen next year in Congress without the guiding hand of the man who came to be known to the nation as "Mr. Republican."

The fact that the President faces trouble in Congress was demonstrated last week when the Senate killed Eisenhower's bill to lift the ceiling on the national debt, after the House had approved the measure. It is reasonably safe to say that if Taft had been on the job, advising Ike, that measure either would have been enacted into law, or it would not have been presented at all. But it wouldn't have been killed.

Earlier in the year, it was Taft who served as a most effective intermediary between the White House and Capitol Hill, who counseled Eisenhower on what he should and shouldn't undertake, who brought compromises out of the conflicts in views between the different elements in the Republican party. As the politicians might tersely phrase it, it was Taft who made Eisenhower look good, and it was Taft who saved Ike from setbacks and embarrassment in his first year at the head of his nation's government. To understand the full significance of Taft's loss to Eisenhower, to the Republican party and to his country, it is necessary to realize that Taft, above all else, was a good political soldier.

Thirteen months ago in Chicago, Taft came about as close to achieving his party's nomination for the Presidency as a man could come without obtaining it. No one can say with certainty what would have happened if Taft had emerged victorious from the hard fight that was waged in early July, 1952. But it's within the realm of possibility that Douglas MacArthur would be President of the United States today, if Taft had won, for there were many in Chicago who thought MacArthur might have been Taft's choice as his running mate.

Taft had the nomination almost within his grasp on the morning of July 7, 1952. But the then Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and other Ike backers accused Taft lieutenants of attempting to steal votes. Taft delegates were uneaten in Texas, Louisiana and Georgia, and that maneuver brought his defeat.

No unsuccessful candidate for a Presidential nomination in all history polled as many votes as did Taft. Probably never in political history did the supporters of a defeated contender leave a convention as bitterly resentful and disappointed as were the Taft supporters. They felt their pockets had been picked while the Eisenhower forces were screaming, "Stop thief."

Yet, less than an hour after Eisenhower was designated as the Republican candidate for the Presidency, Taft walked into his headquarters, pledged his support, posed with him for pictures and later led his own supporters down the line for Ike.

As a good Republican, incidentally, Taft was prepared to do the same thing for Dewey in 1948. But Dewey didn't want Taft's help, felt he didn't need it and considered that Taft would be a handicap and a weight around his neck in what he believed was a winning drive for the White House.

It was early this year, only months before death was to strike him down and bring an end to his brilliant career, that the average citizen came to realize the full height of Taft's stature.

Taft was more than the spokesman for the big group in Congress who shared his views. He was a leader who commanded both their respect and loyalty, who stood with them in defeat and fought for the principles in which they believed, and when Taft advised and urged them to meet Eisenhower half-way they did.

He was Eisenhower's partner in fashioning the legislative program that was presented to Congress, and then he became the leader who undertook to see that it was passed on Capitol Hill. He was the spokesman to the President for the members of Congress and to the members of Congress for the President, and his tremendous ability and the respect he commanded enabled him to perform his dual role with great skill.

Whether any other Senator is capable of reconciling the opposing philosophies and views within the Republican party with the same success that Taft did is something that only time will tell. But the stunned President Eisenhower must realize that the death of the man who fought him so forcefully for the nomination has now cost him his most valued lieutenant.

Had Taft lived, any attempt by Governor Dewey to become the Republican Presidential nominee in 1956 would have been doomed to certain defeat. Even with Taft dead, it seems highly improbable that Dewey, after two unsuccessful runs for the White House, will be given a third chance.

Dewey is a cold, aloof figure who fails to stir much enthusiasm either on the part of the rank and file of voters or the professional politicians within his own party outside the State of New York.

Recent reports from Albany, however, indicate that Dewey will seek reelection to the Governorship next year and that he intends to maintain control of the New York delegation to the 1956 G.O.P. national convention to be in position to bid for the Presidential nomination, if Eisenhower does not desire a second term.

So bitter and deep-rooted was and is the feeling between the Taft and Dewey wings of the Republican party that it is highly improbable that even Taft's death can bring any political communion between the two. Some of Taft's friends were resentful even of the reserved tribute which Dewey paid to Taft last week after the latter's death.

This writer, who covered Taft's bid for the Presidency both at Philadelphia in 1948 and at Chicago in 1952, has two vivid memories of the open warfare between the Taft and Dewey camps in 1952. One was Dewey standing before his delegation and threatening and brow-beating into line the New York delegates who had pledged themselves to Taft. The second was the Taft workers showering down upon the convention circulars headed: "Sink Dewey" and containing a sharp attack upon the tactics employed by Dewey.

Taft said after the 1952 convention that he had made his last try for the Presidency. But it was also pretty clear that one man whose Presidential hopes also would be vetoed by Taft was Mr. Thomas E. Dewey. It is unlikely that the Taft followers, even with their leader dead, will ever forgive Dewey.

Home-Owners Must Pick Up Check for MTA

It seems obvious that the long hand of politics reached in and dictated the 3-2 decision of the State Public Utilities Commission which prevented the MTA trustees from raising fares on the transit system. Who pulled the strings and directed the utilities commissioners to block the fare increase is a matter of conjecture and speculation.

For some time before the utilities commissioners announced their decision and then hustled away for a month's vacation, however, politicians were arguing among themselves whether the 1954 Democratic candidate for Governor would be better off, if the Herter MTA trustees were allowed to raise fares or were prohibited from doing so.

There was no discussion as to which move would be better for the people in the 14 cities served by the road, and perhaps those politicians who have been vigorously thumping themselves on the chests and declaring that they helped to prevent a rise in fares would be good enough to tell the public what happens now.

No one wanted to increase the MTA fares. Certainly, it wasn't a pleasant task for the trustees of the road to undertake. Boston's Mayor Hynes' attitude on the matter was typical of those who viewed the problem thoughtfully and not in the light of partisan politics.

Hynes deplored the necessity for boosting fares. He considered it an unfortunate step and one that might impose a hardship upon persons in very modest circumstances who use the MTA. But he also realized that the money had to be raised from some source to run the transit system and that a $10,000,000 deficit not only would throw a tremendous burden onto property-owners but also would harm the city generally, discourage business and industry from coming here and have an adverse effect upon employment opportunities.

The MTA problem hasn't been solved by the action of Utilities Commission in denying the fare increase. The decision simply means that the home-owners and rent-payers will continue picking up the bill for whatever deficit is incurred by the road.

Because a person happens to live in a rented apartment or house doesn't mean he is not saddled with part of the MTA loss. Even under rent-control a landlord is allowed to charge an increase in taxes based upon his tenants, and that, of course, is precisely what will happen in most instances.

The written statement issued by Utilities Commissioners Thomas A. Flaherty and Joseph P. Cleary explaining why they voted against allowing a rise in fares was a masterpiece in political double-talk. A similar statement by Edward L. Ford said practically nothing—but in about 500 words.

Flaherty and Cleary said in substance that they were against a 20-cent fare because it wouldn't completely wipe out the deficit but that if the trustees had proposed a 22½ or 23-cent fare which would have completely covered the road's operating costs, they would have had no alternative but to approve it.

Their statement made so little sense that one can only wonder if either of them is actually competent to serve in a position of responsibility and pass on matters which affect the public well-being. They declared in substance that because the MTA trustees did not propose wiping out the entire deficit, they should not be allowed to write off $6,750,000 from the deficit.

After reading and digesting the statements issued by Messrs. Flaherty, Ford and Cleary, this writer has the feeling that the greatest public service the three could render would be to submit their own resignations so their positions might be filled by persons possessing a higher degree of intelligence and a lesser disposition to insult the public intellect.

Water Safety—

Kenneth E. Prior, Alderman at Large, complimented the youngsters on the hard work they have done. He said this was his sixth visit to this exhibition and he is more and more impressed. He assured the parents that they could rest assured of the utmost in supervision and instruction here at the Lake. He closed by bringing the greetings of the Mayor to the people in attendance.

C. Evans Johnson, Director of Recreation, City of Newton, wanted particularly at this time to correct a very serious rumor that has been circulating in Newton in the past two weeks to the effect that the lake is polluted. He explained that the Newton Health Department brings a weekly report to his office and the harmful bacteria content of the water at the Lake at the present time is very much lower than at any time in the past five years. He asked the people to kindly refute the rumors if they should hear of them. He expressed the hope that this program will be continued for many years to come.

Gilbert J. Champagne, Chairman of the First Aid and Water Safety Program of the Newton Red Cross, commented on the new type of Back-pressure Armfit artificial respiration method while lifeguards demonstrated. Also demonstrated was the Resuscitator was given. Mr. Champagne also explained, with demonstrations, the paddle board techniques in life saving used at the present time.

Miss McCarthy and her teaching staff greatly appreciate the interest and help from all the parents. They wish to thank the following people for their splendid co-operation: Chief Philip Purcell, Newton Police Department; Mrs. Charles Delaney and Mrs. Solomon Kozol for many hours of registration work; and Mrs. John Sanroma and her refreshment committee, Mrs. Henry F. Arnold.

between the Boston and Albany Railroad and South avenue. From 128, the road will run westward across the state through Weston, Wayland, Framingham, Southboro, Westboro, Grafton, Millbury, Auburn, Chatham, Sturbridge, Brimfield, Warren, Palmer, Ludlow, Chicopee, West Springfield, Westfield, Russell, Blanford, Otis, Becket, Lee, Stockbridge and West Stockbridge.

Construction of the road will result in tremendous savings in travel time. Engineering studies have shown that the estimated savings from Newton to Pittsfield will be one hour and 45 minutes, from Newton to Springfield, a saving of approximately one hour, and from Newton to

Worcester, a saving of 20 minutes. The Authority said a spur will be constructed from the interchange at Route 128 to a point near the Middlesex and Boston Street Railway Company terminal on Commonwealth avenue in Auburndale.

From the interchange at Route 128 to Framingham, the toll highway will consist of six 12-foot lanes with two 10-foot shoulders. From Framingham to the New York state line, the road will have four 12-foot lanes with two 10-foot shoulders.

The new route plan is expected to be acceptable to both state and municipal authorities, as well as the bankers who will handle the huge bond issue for the privately financed road.

It is understood that Public Works Commissioner John A. Volpe and Gov. Herbert Alford have given tentative approval to the new proposal.

TELEVIEWING THE NEWS

One of TV's camera tricks, the split screen technique, will get a real workout in the various Arthur Godfrey shows.

Arthur is being photographed and heard from his Virginia farm, while the rest of the programs will originate in New York. Should be an interesting gimmick to watch... and it's certainly nice to have the Redhead back.

John Daly, emcee of the popular "What's My Line?" panel show, has been made a vice president of ABC-TV network.

In the news and special events department. But he won't be leaving the CBS packaged "What's My Line?" for quite a while. His contract for the show runs to 1957!

The New York-Hollywood rivalry in TV produces some funny situations. The "Mr. and Mrs. North" shows have a New York background... and they're shot in Hollywood.

And "Hollywood Offbeat," a private eye series with Melvyn Douglas that takes place in the film capital, is really shot in New York!

The drums are still beating for the night-time "Garroway at Large" TV show... but Garroway will still continue on his early morning "Today" show, which is scheduled to go national before winter comes.

We don't need to tell you about our television service. Our many satisfied TV service customers do that for us. So for dependable service at fair and honest prices, call LEE LOUMOS, Inc., 1357 Washington St. Phone Bigelow 4-7240. TV Service 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Daily.

Eight From Newton Go On Overnight Horseback Trip

Eight Newton boys and girls were among the campers from Tabor Day Camp in Needham who went on an overnight horseback riding trip on Wednesday, July 29. A group of 21 campers and four counselors left camp at 5 o'clock and rode, mostly through fields and over woodland trails to the Mill Farm in Dover. They arrived at 6:45, and each camper unsaddled, tied, fed and watered his own horse.

While Mr. Browder and Mrs. Horner prepared supper, the campers made up their beds. Blanket rolls and other supplies

NEW FUNERAL HOME of P. E. Murray, dean of Greater Boston funeral directors, will be open for public inspection next Saturday, Sunday and Monday at 2000 Centre street, West Roxbury. One of the finest buildings of its kind in this part of the country it is designed to serve the needs of four to six families with all its luxuriously appointed chapels on street level. Comfortable air-conditioned, throughout, the building also contains lounges for both men and women and has a 100-car macadam parking lot in the rear easily accessible by means of a double width driveway which circles the building.

were brought to the campsite by truck in advance.

After a game of flashlight tag and a songfest, the campers formed a circle, clasped hands and sang "Come Campers All and Sing of Dear Camp Tabor." Soon they were settled for the night on a hillside under the stars, the girls with Mrs. Horner, the boys with Mr. Browder, Mr. Madden, and Mr. White.

In the morning the cooks prepared a hearty breakfast of bacon and eggs, rolls, fruit juice, and milk. Again the campers fed and watered their own horses and saddled them for the return trip. They were back at camp in plenty of time for morning assembly. Counselors report that they never have had a better behaved, happier, more cooperative group on any trip in their camping careers.

Campers going on the trip were chosen on the basis of their skill and experience in handling horses. They have been practicing trail riding since the opening of camp, and recently a 20-horse drill team put on a demonstration of precision riding which the whole camp watched.

Those going on the trip were Susan Haake, 85 Kingswood road, and Nancy Scammon, 290 Islington road, Auburndale; Claire Finard, 63 Bonad road, and Ray Burke, 36 Lansing road, Stanley Ward, 271 Chestnut street, and Joan Chase, 62 Prince street, all of West Newton, and Alice and Esther Jacobson, 185 Collins road, Waban. Others were Owen Dow and Roma Wright of Needham, Bob Dugan, Mike Scafiati, Ken Kane, Dick Spurr, Martha Case, Tommy Swan, Polly Robinson, Rita Kelley, Vincent Bond, Barbara Nichols and Jacqueline Barry. Counselors were Mrs. William Horner, William Madden, Allen White and J. Tabor Browder, director of the camp.

POLITICAL OVERTONES

Failure to Enforce No-Smoking Rule Costs MTA Riders ...
It is One Improvement that Could Be Made at No Cost ...

One way the MTA trustees might encourage patronage of their road, particularly by women, would be to order a strict enforcement of the system's no-smoking regulation. Many women have stopped riding on the system because of the annoyance of having cigar or cigarette smoke blown in their faces, while they sit looking at a large and conspicuous no-smoking sign.

This is one improvement which could be accomplished at no expense whatever since the condition is caused by the laziness and laxity of MTA employees and their failure to carry out the duties for which they are paid.

It is not at all unusual to see one or more passengers smoking on a rapid transit train, while the guard relaxes in the other car on the ride between stations. Needless to say, we are not referring to the smoking cars which are used in the morning and evening rush periods.

Terminus Still Undecided

Newton's Protest Assures New Study Before Decision Is Made

Announcement last week that the proposed East-West toll road would have its terminus on the East end at Route 128, greeted with enthusiasm by some civic organizations in the city, now is regarded as anything but a satisfactory terminus, so far as Newton is concerned at least.

Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood has protested the Turnpike Authority's plan to terminate the highway at the Weston-Newton line on Route 128 with a connecting spur road from the Nickerson Field terminus to Commonwealth Avenue in Auburndale. He stated that the plan would "dump" more traffic in Newton than the city could handle.

As a result of the mayor's protest, latest development is that the proposed Newton spur may never be built, the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority has stated. Authority chairman William R. Callahan says that whether the spur is built depends on studies being made on how to bring the turnpike from Newton into Boston.

Rep. Harold Putnam of Needham supported the mayor's contention and filed a resolution calling for a special study to coordinate the highway planning of all agencies building roads in Metropolitan Boston.

In the meantime, a previously advanced plan, first brought out publicly by Walter A. Hodgdon of Newton, that an automobile highway over the tracks of the Boston and Albany Railroad be built as a means of helping Newton solve the problem of the East-West toll road, is being reconsidered by officials.

The plan to build a skyway over a railroad bed originated in Newton. The Highland branch of the Boston and Albany railroad through Newton and Brookline has been considered as a possible link between the highway and Boston. Also suggested are the

Attempts to Elude Police

Martin J. Rooney, Newton Youth Is Killed In Los Angeles, Cal.

A Newton youth, age 18, died Tuesday several hours after being shot by officers who wanted to question him about a burglary.

The officers said the youth, Martin James Rooney, gasped, "I'm an Army deserter" as he lay on the ground with two bullets in his head. They had fired five bullets above his head but he defied their commands to halt and kept running, Sheriff's Deputies Donald D. Fern and Donald R. Matthews reported.

Rooney was born in Lincoln February 2, 1935, the son of the late Marguerite (McManus) and Arthur Rooney. He attended schools in Waltham and was a sophomore at Watertown High School when he left to enter the Army in February, 1952, with the consent of his half-brother, Joseph Chaisson of 38 Carleton street, Newton, who was his guardian.

He was home on leave last January and his last letter was received by his family about two months ago.

Shortly after midnight Monday, the officers said, they saw a man outside a service station and drove up to question him. Officer Fern said he recognized Rooney as a man who had fled when he and two other occupants of a car were stopped for routine questioning about a month ago. Fern and Matthews said Rooney broke and ran and that they chased him about two blocks before firing the fatal shot.

He died in Harbor General Hospital.

Besides his half-brother, young Rooney is survived by a sister, age 15.

To Replace Five Stations

Mayor Asks $850,000 Bond Issue to Build 3 Fire Stations

In a letter to the Board of Aldermen, Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood urges an $850,000 bond issue for the construction of three fire stations to replace five existing stations.

Mayor Lockwood points out in his communication that the buildings to be discontinued for use as fire stations could be used for other municipal purposes. In his letter to the Board of Aldermen, the mayor stated:

"The entire problem of new fire houses has come before the writer's attention something like 18 years. Countless groups have discussed the situation within the writer's hearing. Efforts have been made all during that period to secure appropriations to replace the Willow street and Newtonville houses.

"The general situation within City Hall is very crowded. This situation has risen to a point of interference with effective and economical production of work. There is insufficient floor room for what might be called current files. Too much recourse is necessary to files stored in the basement under very satisfactory conditions. The situation in the basement was so acute that in 1941 the then mayor recommended an appropriation for a new building for a Public Buildings Department Shop and the matter was approved by the Board of Aldermen. After World War II, conditions prevented the erection of the building. The orders were revoked and the building never became a realization.

"The Public Buildings Department occupies an important large office, with a vault in the basement, and also occupies a considerable portion of the basement with storage.

"When Engine 7 House was razed at Newton Upper Falls, it was understood that new quarters for joint occupancy by the Newton Highlands Fire Station and the Newton Upper Falls crew would be erected at or near the city land on Elliot street. This would provide proper protection for the Upper Falls and improved access even to the Turnpike, with less danger.

"The removal of the Fire Department from the Newton Highlands quarters would provide

Boy, 12, Revealed As A Burglar

Home, Golf Club, Among Places Looted

Apprehension of a 12-year-old West Newton boy Tuesday apparently cleared up a house burglary and two breaks in a golf club refreshment stand with recovery of much of the loot, police reported.

Investigation of a break at the refreshment stand at the 11th tee of the Brae Burn Country Club, West Newton, last Saturday, resulted in the apprehension of the boy who reportedly admitted a break at the same stand August 1, as well as a burglary at the home of Arthur Barnes, 51 Winthrop street, West Newton on June 11.

The police recovered a radio, a clock and candy all valued at about $5, which were taken from the refreshment stand Saturday, and two watches, taken from the Barnes home last June. A quantity of candy and cigarettes were also taken in the break into the stand August 1.

In addition also found in the culprit's room were a camera, allegedly taken from a parked car and a number of articles reportedly taken from a hardware store.

Investigation was by Sgt. James E. Halloran and Inspector Joseph B. Lyons.

Dr. Beeuwkes Promoted to Top C. S. Grade

Dr. Reinier Beeuwkes, Jr., 123 Sargent street, Newton, was congratulated at Watertown Arsenal last Friday by Major General Leslie E. Simon, Chief of Ordnance Research and Development Division in Washington, upon his promotion to the top Civil Service grade.

Dr. Beeuwkes has been working at the Watertown Arsenal Laboratory for 12 years in the development of Applied Mechanics in gun design. This promotion in Civil Service grade was based upon Dr. Beeuwkes' recent appointment as special research assistant to the Director of the Watertown Arsenal Laboratory.

Prior to accepting employment at the Arsenal, the Doctor was a member of the faculty at George Washington University and at the Case School of Applied Science. He attended the Universities of Washington, Pittsburgh and Harvard as well as the Westinghouse Design School where he also served as a member of the research staff.

During World War II, Dr. Beeuwkes was awarded the Meritorious Civilian Service Award for the concept, development and utilization of Applied Mechanics in technical contributions to gun design.

He is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences.

Dr. Beeuwkes and his wife, Elizabeth, have been residents of Newton for 12 years. They have four children, Betsy, 15, Reinier, III, 13, John, 12, and Henry, 2.

Burglar Flees As Occupant Wakes

Entering a West Newton home while the occupants were sleeping, a burglar escaped with $35 early Monday morning, according to a report to police. It was also stated that the burglar stole two golf clubs.

ABC Upholds Local Boards Suspension

Appealing a 10-day suspension of his license to the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission by a Newton package liquor dealer for selling to a minor proved of no avail last week, according to an announcement by the Newton Licensing Board which received word last Thursday that the appeal was denied.

At the hearing held in Boston on the appeal of Fred S. Moore, Jr., 72 Algonquin road, Chestnut Hill of the Newton Board's decree suspending the license of the Moore Beverage Shop, 305A Washington street, Newton, the appellant denied selling beer to a 16-year-old youth. Police testified that the beer was sold to a boy who was later involved in the severe beating of another boy

Heart Attack Is Fatal to Firefighter

Stricken with a heart attack while at Engine 33 Station, Willow avenue, Newton Centre, Firefighter Robert E. Lucas, 46, of 103 Harvard street, Newtonville, driver for Chief John E. Corcoran, died Sunday morning.

The victim was discovered in the station at 7:40 a.m., by a member of the department who summoned a physician. Dr. Edward Kelley of Watertown associate medical examiner said that death was due to coronary thrombosis.

Born in Newton, March, 1907, the son of Newton F. and Mary E. (Furneaux) Lucas, the victim was a member of the Fire Department since February 2, 1941. He was active in the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church, Newton Centre.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ruth (Shaw) Lucas; three sons, Robert Jr., 23, in the Army in Indiana; John, 10, and Wallace, 8; a brother, Alfred, of Cambridge; and a sister, Gladys, of Winthrop.

Funeral services were held yesterday (Wednesday) at 2 p.m. at the First Congregational Church, with Rev. Morrison Russell Boynton, D.D., officiating.

Burial was in Newton Cemetery.

North All-Stars Beat Revere 6-3; Play In Regional Series Saturday

Newton North All-Stars added another notch in their climb to fame last night (Wednesday) when they defeated Revere Western 6 to 3 at Bicycle Field, Waltham and this win puts them into the regional final games to be held at Woburn this Saturday and Monday.

The game last night was featured by the superb hurling of Buddy Ryan of Newton who struck out nine men and the great defensive play of Billy Woodlock, Buddy Russo and Alan York of the Newton team.

Two of Revere's runs were accounted for by home runs by Vamzeamse and DeMarco.

Prior to last night's game, the Newton North All-Stars had defeated Belmont North All-Stars 10 to 6 to win the District C championship and they then went on to defeat Dorchester 2 to 1 in the Little League semi-final Monday night.

Should the Newton nine prevail in the regional games in Woburn Saturday and Monday, they will then meet the winners of the Western tournament next week. "Jim" Murphy, Commissioner of the Newton Little League did such an outstanding job, both this year and last, that prior to the start of the elimination series in and around Boston, he was named the Greater Boston Tournament Director.

National Red Cross Seeks Local Aid

The American National Red Cross has requested the aid of the Newton Chapter in the recruitment of staff personnel for its Service to Military Hospitals and Service to Military Installations.

In addition to staffing domestic hospitals with case workers and recreation workers, the Red Cross must also maintain adequate staffs in the overseas installations.

The 1953 Fund Campaign included provision for an expansion of Red Cross recreational activities overseas when needed, in addition to the regular program of service to the armed forces. This expansion of program, now under way, requires securing additional recreation staff over and above normal needs. Before being transferred to an overseas assignment, personnel receive adequate training in domestic hospitals.

C of C States City's Growth Warrants It

In a request to the Board of Aldermen, the Newton Chamber of Commerce urges that the salary of the mayor of this city be increased to $12,000 annually and that the matter be placed on the ballot at the coming election. This is the second attempt to increase the mayor's salary to $12,000. A similar attempt was made by Alderman Paul S. Rich last year, but the Board voted against placing the matter on the ballot.

Executive Secretary Rupert C. Thompson of the Chamber asserted last week that the action was taken on the assumption that the incumbent would devote his full time to mayoralty duties. He pointed out that a city manager in a city the size of Newton would receive considerably more for his duties. Thompson further asserted that the management of a city containing over 80,000 residents with a budget of more than $12,000,000 is worth at least $12,000 per year.

The Chamber's request is that the Board place its recommendation that the salary be increased to $12,000, starting January 1, 1954, on the ballot at the city election on November 3. The request was referred to the Aldermanic Claims and Rules Committee, which is expected to report its recommendation to the full Board at its meeting August 23.

The present $9000 rate was adopted October 20, 1947, effective January 1, 1948. The previous salary for the office of mayor, which was conducted on a part-time basis, was $5,000 per year. However, when Theodore R. Lockwood became mayor in 1948, he devoted his full time to the position.

Baseball, All Day and Every Day at Centre Playground

It happens every spring in a neighborhood of Joe Cronins and Jack Quinns where Newton Centre Playground boys come naturally by their baseball enthusiasm. Boys of all ages come to play, in fact so many that we have five teams: a Little League Team for boys 8 to 12 years; two Pony League teams for boys 13 to 15 years; in the playground leagues, a midget team of 8 to 12 years olds and a junior team of 13 to 15 year olds.

Boys like Redmond Staunton, Paul Joyce, Bob Nangle and Tom Gaffney have grown from one league to the next. They live, breathe and talk baseball, 9 a.m. when they greet the instructors at the back door of "the House" waiting impatiently for a ball or the catcher's mitt to warm up for the morning game until they dash home for supper and a quick change into their professional looking Pony League uniforms.

While one team is playing the others are practicing, for we are pretty fortunate in having two baseball diamonds, one for the Little League or 8 to 12 year olds, and a regular diamond. For instance, the juniors were playing Cold Spring Playground on the big diamond the other day while the Midgets — Mike Butler, Winnie Shaw and his little brother Freddie, just to name a few, were practicing away on the Little League diamond.

The baseball fever has even spread to the Cerebral Palsy Camp which is located on Newton Centre Playground also. Here we find Joe Seroos propped up on his crutches swinging lustily with his bat at instructor Ray Doherty's pitches.

In the late afternoon, some of the Twilight League boys begin to warm up for the evening games. Arthur DeStefano, Fred Keith, Dan Griffin, Ray Doherty, Joe Lynch, our own recreation leaders Bob Manning and Henry McQueeney, all past members of the playground teams, are now playing for various teams around the city and for their respective colleges.

The youngsters and instructors are saturated with baseball interest at Newton Centre Playground.

The instructors are: Mary Ellen Gaffney, Horace Allen, Dorothy Devlin, Robert Manning, Henry McQueeney.

CARLETON P. MERRILL

Merrill To Be Candidate For Alderman

Former Alderman-at-Large Carleton P. Merrill, 2nd, today announced that he would be a candidate for election to the Board of Aldermen in the November elections.

Mr. Merrill was first elected to the Board of Aldermen in 1950 where he was a member of the Public Works Committee, Municipal Office-street Parking Committee, Ward Lines Committee and Street Re-naming Committee.

In 1951 he announced that he would not seek re-election to the Board of Aldermen as he was undertaking an assignment that would result in his being absent from the city for a year. During 1952 Mr. Merrill traveled extensively throughout the south and worked in several large textile plants. He returned to Newton last December and re-assured the position of New England cotton sales representative for Sykes, Incorporated at 70 Needham street, Newton Highlands.

In making his announcement Mr. Merrill stated that as a former Alderman and active worker in several civic organizations he is familiar with the city, its problems and the responsibility that an elected official has towards its citizens. It is important that qualified men with experience be elected. I feel that I have the experience and qualifications necessary to help conduct our municipal affairs. If re-elected to the Board of Aldermen I shall not only continue to work to improve the many services which the city

Girls Knitting At Playground For Leper Aid

Throughout the city much attention has been drawn to the fast growing project of Knitting bandages for the Leper Colonies on the South Pacific Islands. It has become such a widely accepted pastime that a merchant in Newton Center has a special supply of cotton thread for the purpose of supplying the avid knitters.

The girls of the Thompsonville playground have taken a great interest in this project and have been devoting playground time to making the bandages.

Lorraine Wanagel, Susan Callan and Dorothy D'Innocenzo have contributed time to this charitable work under the supervision of the playground instructors.

The supplies of bandages have been requested by the missionaries, taking care of the victims of leprosy, and the girls of the playground have been generous with their time often putting aside their personal playground handwork.

Miss Gorman the instructor is enthusiastic about the great good these girls are doing. It is recreation blessed with a charitable purpose.

furnishes its residents, but will be also conscious of the additional facilities that are needed in a growing community.

Mr. Merrill was educated in the Newton Schools and attended Lowell Textile Evening School. He is President of the Newton Junior Chamber of Commerce, member of the Newton Improvement Association, Newton Republican Club and the Southern New England Textile Club. He has in the past worked on the Community Chest Drive, Newton-Wellesley Hospital Drive and was an A.R.P. warden in 1942. A veteran of World War II, he served in the Army Air Force and saw foreign service in the Pacific Theater of Operations.

Rotary Members Hear Talk by Dist. Governor

Stating that a good club like an on-going business needs a "stock taking" once a year, Daniel J. O'Brien, of Milford, district governor of Rotary International District No. 289, spoke before members of Newton Rotary Club at their meeting held Monday at 12:15 p. m. at Brae Burn Country Club.

Preceding the regular meeting of the club, a "club assembly" attended by all officers and committee chairmen of Newton Rotary was held at 11 a. m. Committee chairmen turned in their plans for the year's work. Seventeen were present, the largest group yet to meet with him at such a meeting according to Mr. O'Brien.

Named to Two State Recess Commissions

House Speaker Charles Gibbons (R-Stonham) announced last week his appointees to a total of 27 recess commissions, to study various state problems. It is expected that this year's commissions will be a hard-working group, which will try to find some real solutions, and not go off on junkets, expensive to the tax-payers.

Representative Irene K. Thresher (R-Newton) has been appointed to two of these commissions. One of them provides for an investigation and study of the ten State Teachers Colleges, with a special emphasis on training sets.

more and better elementary school teachers.

The second commission, on which Mrs. Thresher will serve will be the one to study and revise the laws relating to Public Welfare. This commission will cover three other problems: that of child guardianship, investigation of the child adoption laws, and the problems of the aging in the state. Both of these commissions hope to produce some good educational and social legislation.

During the past year Mrs. Thresher served on two commissions also, one being that on Educational Television, and the other, of which she was the clerk, resulted in better legislation to provide for reimbursements to the private hospitals, for the care of public welfare and other public assistance patients in Massachusetts.

This condition could be corrected quickly if the MTA officials were to serve notice that a guard on a rapid transit train or operator of bus or trackless trolley would be suspended without pay the first time a patron was found smoking on a car or vehicle
for which he was responsible.

It does not seem that it is asking too much to expect the guard on a rapid transit train to keep a watch on two cars or that a bus or trackless trolley operator should police his vehicle to the extent of knowing whether any of his patrons are smoking.

Home Owners Continue to Pay for Free MTA Rides

One of our readers has written in to ask whether the members of the State Public Utilities Commission, who blocked the fare
increase on the MTA, have done anything about turning in the passes which entitle them to free rides on the transit system.

We regret to report that these supposed champions of the public interest have clung firmly to their rights as free-loaders and from all indications have every intention of continuing to do so unless and until someone cancels out their privileges.

One public utilities commissioner, Mr.
Thomas A. Flaherty of Charlestown, expressed the opinion during the recent public hearings on the proposed MTA fare rise that the owners of homes and other real estate should continue to subsidize
the losses incurred by the road, and no doubt he had in mind that they should pick up the tab for his free rides.

Since it has been established that some 68 officials and employees of the State public utilities department hold passes allowing them free rides on a transit system, which
this year will lose more than $9,000,000, it will be very interesting to see whether any of the legislators who have been thumping their breasts in the public behalf do anything to correct the situation.

The MTA officials, who are dependent upon the whims of the utilities commissioners, are clearly reluctant to ask them to send back their passes, probably on the theory that it would make bad matters worse, and the utilities commissioners take the position that they won't turn in their passes unless they are requested to do so.

Any legislator, however, can move to correct the situation by filing a bill calling for the cancellation of all passes issued by the MTA to the utilities department. We suspect that Governor Herter would lose little time signing such a measure if it reached his desk.

Strategists Shouldn't Underestimate Vote-Getting Strength of Saltonstall—Never Lost a Major Fight

Senator Leverett Saltonstall, who breezed through two easy contests for the seat he holds in the upper house of Congress, is virtually certain to face a stiffer battle next year than at any time since he sought re-election to a second term as Governor in 1940 and won by a scant 5588 votes.

His Democratic opponent in 1954 probably will be either ex-Governor Paul A.
Dever or Congressman Philip J. Philbin, despite the insistence of ex-Mayor James M.
Curley that he plans to run for the U. S. Senate next year, even though he will be nearing his 80th birthday.

Dever, whose followers are scattered through key places in the Bay State's Democratic setup, unquestionably can have the Senate nomination and the right to carry his party's banner against Saltonstall, if he wants it. If he chooses to remain on the sidelines, Philbin undoubtedly will be the Democratic contender against the senior Massachusetts Senator.

For nearly five years various Democratic politicians have been bemoaning the fact that they did not step up and challenge Saltonstall in 1948, when a strong Democratic tide was running and Messrs. Truman and Dever rolled up tremendous pluralities
in Massachusetts.

There is no way of knowing what would have happened, if Saltonstall had been opposed by a potent Democratic contender in '48. He might have been defeated, or he might have survived the Democratic sweep
and emerged from it with increased stature.

The facts were that no one suspected in July, 1948, that Massachusetts would see the impact of a Democratic trend the following November. Saltonstall shaped up as a favorite to win reelection. Leading Democrats were unwilling to risk their own prestige in a battle against him, and the Democratic nomination for the Senate all but went begging.

The result was that Saltonstall had a soft opponent in 1948, just as he did in 1944,
and his election both years was a foregone conclusion before the voters even went to the polls, for neither of his Senate adversaries actually staged any real campaign.

That won't be the case next year, however. The defeat of former Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., who had been regarded as the State's sturdiest Republican vote-getter, has caused a number of Democrats to start thinking in terms of a campaign against Saltonstall.

Philbin has been building his political fences for the past six months. An able Congressman and an excellent vote-getter
in central Massachusetts, he would be in a strong position for a Senate bid, if Dever chooses not to run.

Dever, incidentally, is probably the key to the 1954 Democratic picture in Massachusetts. He will pull the party strings from behind the scenes. He will decide whether a Democratic State convention is held next year, and if one is called, he will come pretty close to determining who will be nominated.

The question most Democratic politicians are privately asking is whether Dever himself will be a candidate in 1954 and whether he will march back to the political wars
seeking vindication after his defeat last November by Governor Herter.

Dever has declared that he will never again run for the Governorship, though his followers have been trying to persuade him
to change his mind since the death of Maurice J. Tobin. But he has not ruled out the possibility of his seeking a Senate seat. He has never forgotten the tight fight he lost to Saltonstall in 1940, and he might well wage a return battle next year.

In all the Democratic reckoning and planning, however, it can't be overlooked that Mr. Leverett Saltonstall also is a pre-tently potent and formidable candidate and that the task of ousting him from the Senate would be no easy undertaking for Dever or anyone else.

Except for the fluke defeat he suffered in 1936, when he was defeated by Francis
E. Kelly for the Lieutenant Governorship in an amazing upset, Saltonstall has never lost a major political fight.

Democratic chieftains are disposed to attribute Saltonstall's string of victories to a charmed political life, a series of easy contests and pushover opponents.

He had to have more than that, however,
to win three elections to the Governorship
and two to the U. S. Senate, and Democratic strategists would be most unwise to underestimate his vote-drawing potential.

Since President Eisenhower started on his vacation in Colorado, political observers have been undertaking to measure and weigh the record of his accomplishments
during his first seven months in office, and they have come up with some conflicting conclusions.

On the surface the Eisenhower legislative record to date is not a particularly impressive one. The President himself insisted that many problems be put off until next year, and many experts have a strong conviction that Congress will not get around to all the matters awaiting its attention in 1954.

In all fairness, however, it should be kept in mind that control of the executive branch of the national government shifted from one political party to the other last January for the first time in 20 years and that the change was far more complex and involved greater problems than the average citizen realizes.

That the Eisenhower administration
seemingly moved so slowly and adopted so many stop-gap procedures was due in a large degree to the time consumed in getting organized and in heading the national government's course in a new direction.

The most momentous happening during the first seven months of the Eisenhower
regime was, of course, the truce in Korea,
bringing a close to the third largest conflict
in American history and the first which did not end in victory and terms dictated by the United States.

As a professional soldier, it probably wasn't easy for President Eisenhower to agree to the steps that stopped the shooting war in Korea, but any other course would have involved a heavy cost in American lives.

The President and his advisers know that his record must be submitted to the American people in November, 1954, for it will be on the Eisenhower record that most Republican candidates for Congress will stand for election 15 months from now, and it will be satisfaction or dissatisfaction with that record which will shape
the voting trend in doubtful districts.

The early months of next year will offer
a crucial period for the Eisenhower administration. It will be another 12 months before the all-important judgment is made of Ike's record.

Movie Industry in Dire Need of Relief

President Eisenhower has repeatedly expressed his opposition to cutting any taxes until he can reduce them all, and he plans to do that next year. But to many observers it appeared that the President acted unwisely
in vetoing the bill to repeal the amusement tax.

If there is any line of business which is desperately in need of relief, it is the moving picture industry which is fighting for its very survival under the impact of television.

The repeal of the amusement tax might have saved some of the movie houses throughout the country which are likely to close their doors and go out of business in the months before another such measure
an go through the congressional mill and each Ike's desk for his signature.

It is improbable that the moving picture industry ever again will know the tremendous prosperity it enjoyed before the television set became an important adjunct
of the average home. It is quite possible, however, that it can achieve some kind of comeback, if it answers the challenge of television and produces superior pictures

instead of attempting to palm off inferior and mediocre films on the public.

It would be unfortunate if the movie industry should wither to any greater extent than it already has, and it would have been a healthy thing if the assistance which Congress intended had been extended through the repeal of the amusement tax.

OFFICER JOHN J. GEGAN, shown directing a lady motorist, is one of the many reasons why the entire traffic department of the Newton police force has received a group vote in the "Most Courteous Cop" contest being held by the American Automobile Association of Massachusetts. In a letter received by the AAA the Newton police were called the "most courteous group in the Commonwealth—they're tops." The letter writer went on to say the police even have a song, "I'm Cruising Behind You," which is sung to automobile traffic violators. (Photo by Sun News Service)

Palsy Children Enjoy Camp at Centre Area

One shaded corner of Newton

with cerebral palsy come to this camp where they play softball, dodge ball, croquette, bingo and other typical playground games
under the supervision of three in-

TELE- THE VIEWING NEWS

By LEE LOUMOS
The battle between the major networks for the television audience is at its peak, with NBC, CBS and ABC all competing. This kind of struggle is all to the good, as far as the TV set owner is concerned,
because it means that each network
is trying to come up with a blis-
ser and better show than its rivals.

Among the targets of the networks right now are the top playwrights and producers from Broadway. Leland Hayward, the Broadway impresario who produced the recent two-hour Ford Cavalcade, is getting a lot of bids. NBC-TV wants him for a Saturday night variety show. But a number of other producers are eyeing the switch from the legitimate stage to TV. They are being attracted by the financial rewards and by the constantly expanding challenges of video.

Other TV news items: Alaska got the nod from the FCC for construction of its first TV station. . . . So

Powers to Be Candidate for Alderman

Friends of William M. Powers, well-known resident and leader in civic affairs, have induced him to file nomination papers for Ward Alderman from Ward 7.

A life long resident of Newton, Mr. Powers graduated from Newton High School in 1942. He entered Boston University, but had his education interrupted by a three year tour of duty with the army. During his army service, he saw duty in the United States and combat duty in France, Belgium, and Germany.

Upon his return from the service, he resumed his education, majoring in history and government.
While at B.U. he was president of his freshman class and captain of the tennis team. He graduated in 1948.

Mr. Powers taught U.S. History and government at the East Harford High School for one year. He then received an appointment to the John W. Weeks Junior High School in Newton Centre—where he is presently employed.

Well-known for his interest in athletics, Mr. Powers is best-known for his tennis ability.
Starting with the Massachusetts
Interscholastics, he has won numerous titles throughout the state.

In addition to having served as a captain of a Community Chest Team, co-chairman of the stores division of the Red Cross,
a solicitor for the Polio Drive,
Mr. Powers has served on numerous ward committees concerned with improving our city.
At the present time, he is serving on a sub-committee of the Community Council concerned with problems of youth.

Friends and neighbors will also remember him as the capable past president of the Newton Improvement Association, and of the Newton Council of Improvement Associations. It is particularly felt, along with his edu-

tion and personal qualification
that his service in these last mentioned organizations have given him valuable training and insight into the problems and needs
Ward 7 and of the city.

Mr. Powers' wife is the form
Sally Louise Backman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth B. Ba-man of Grassmere street, Ne-ton. He lives with his wife and son, Billy, at 3 Vernon street.

Graduated From Jet Pilot School

Second Lt. Robert C. Round-
son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rounding, 450 Crafts street, Newton, was graduated from the jet pilot school in ceremony
at Bryan Air Force Base, Tex.
and was awarded the silver wing
of an Air Force pilot.

Lt. Rounding received his commission in June 1952, upon graduation from the United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y. He graduated from Newton high school in 1944.

Entering the USAF pilot training program in July 1952,
Rounding was first assigned Bartow Air Base, Fla., for primary pilot training. From there he came to Bryan AFB, located in southeastern Texas, for ba-single engine (jet) training.

Upon receiving his wings,
Rounding was granted a delegate before reporting to other Air Force base for advanced jet training. He is married to the former Beverly Ann O'Conell, of Manhasset, N. Y.

Mr. Robert Cutler Takes Bride, Miss Reynolds in Medfield

White gladioli and candelabras decorated the altar of the First Baptist Church, Medfield recently for the marriage of Miss Pauline Evelyn Reynolds to Mr. Robert Howard Cutler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Cutler of 33 Carl street, Newton Highlands. The Rev. Edward G. Alexander of Gloucester, officiated at the candlelight ceremony at 4 p. m. and a reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Reynolds of 4 Curve street, Medfield.

The bride's white satin gown was fashioned with a Chantilly lace bodice with a Queen Anne collar and a nylon tulle overskirt extending in a train. Her fingertip veil of nylon tulle was caught to a pearl and lace Juliette cap. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Maid of honor was Miss Jane O. Bryer of Medfield, cousin of the bride. She was gown in orchid satin with Chantilly lace inserts, styled with a Peter Pan collar and wore a matching picture hat. She carried a bouquet of pink gladioli. Wearing a pink chiffon frock and a matching headpiece, Cathline M. Reynolds was flower girl for her aunt and carried an old fashioned bouquet.

Best man was Mr. V. Arnold MacDonald of Brookline and the ushers included Mr. Lawrence Moore, Jr. of Watertown and Mr. Richard Keen of Natick.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Reynolds wore a smoke blue dress with white accessories and her flowers were pink sweetheart roses. With her pink nylon dress and matching accessories, Mrs. Cutler wore a corsage of American Beauty roses for her son's wedding.

The bride, a graduate of the Newton-Wellesley School of nursing, is employed in the obstetrical department there. Mr. Cutler, a graduate of Newton High School, is employed at Hood Rubber in Watertown and is a member of the Belmont lodge of Masons.

Upon return from their motor trip the newlyweds plan to live in Waltham.

Fund Raising Antique and Bric-a-brac Auction Planned By Unitarian Society

Antiques and choice bric-a-brac will be auctioned to augment the building fund of the First Unitarian Society in Newton all day Saturday, September 26, according to plans of the church activities committee being made by Mrs. Morris H. Adler, chairman. Mrs. Harry E. Raymond, former co-chairman of the activities committee, and now president of the Women's Alliance, is cooperating in this novel venture to complete the funds necessary for the children's chapel, parish kitchen and church school classrooms now under construction.

The auction will be held on the church grounds, outdoors if the weather permits, otherwise in the West Newton Unitarian parish house. Charles T. Hale will be the auctioneer.

Even while the new church building is rapidly going up in courtyard enclosure, parishioners are reminded that storage space is available now on the parish house storge for contributions of antique furniture or smaller articles for the September auction. Joseph C. Skinner, chairman of the church board of trustees, has volunteered transportation of larger pieces via his station wagon.

Mrs. Adler emphasizes that this auction will not be a rummage sale, but presentation of interesting and valuable antiques and bric-a-brac contributed by members and friends of the parish from their home collections.

Among those already at work on the auction committee, besides Mrs. Adler, are Mrs. Ernest W. Kuebler and Mrs. Robert S. Cobb.

Miss Ruth Irwin, Nutritionist-in-charge of the Newton Nutrition Center will be on vacation from August 17th through Labor Day. Mrs. Sydney Langer will be in charge of the office to take calls.

main line of the Boston and Albany and the main branch and the Bemis branch of the Boston and Maine railroad.

Chairman William F. Callahan of the Turnpike Authority has denied that the Highland Branch was under consideration as the linking route "any more than half-a-dozen other routes are under consideration." He said that this phase of the toll road is an extremely complex traffic problem and one to which engineers must give continuing extensive study. According to Callahan, a single level highway with six 12-foot traffic lanes and an 80-foot right of way would cost approximately $10,000,000 to $12,000,000 a mile. The skyway could have one or two tiers.

In summing up the proposal to terminate the East end of the toll road in Weston at Route 128, Mayor Lockwood stated:

"It is beyond the possibility of any city such as Newton to handle so large a stream of inbound and outbound traffic on one of its streets, even on Commonwealth avenue, and the city of Newton, under such circumstances, would be faced with a problem that would transcend the ability of the city to solve."

At a conference last week Mayor Lockwood pointed out that the traffic on Commonwealth avenue had already increased 400 per cent since the opening of the circumferential highway, Route 128. "It is perfectly obvious," he pointed out, "that under the present plan, the turnpike would arrive at the edge of Newton with the designed six-lane highway and dump the contents of such a huge road into Commonwealth avenue.

"It is obvious," he continued, "in the presentation of such a scheme that the conclusion appears to have settled only the first step in the location of the turnpike and to have forced upon the community the necessity of seeking relief in accelerating the choice of some other route from 128 to the final point of destination within Boston than through Commonwealth avenue."

"Everyone knows that today, with no added traffic, parts of Commonwealth avenue, including Kenmore Square, are virtually impossibly jammed with traffic at present, and any proposed increase, such as would flow from the toll road, would not only present problems of an extreme nature in Newton, but would become utterly impossible of solution when approaching Boston," Mayor Lockwood concluded.

In addition to Mayor Lockwood, representatives of Framingham, Weston and other communities protested the proposed route.

Meanwhile, the Newton Chamber of Commerce, through its Executive Secretary, Rupert C. Thompson had issued a bulletin stating that "the Newton Chamber of Commerce is gratified at the decision of the Turnpike Authority to locate the eastern terminus of the road at the Newton line on Route 128."

Earlier, when proposed routes for the road threatened to cut through Newton, the Chamber of Commerce voted "that the Board of Directors go on record as opposed to the toll road passing through the city of Newton and recommend that the road be constructed westward from a point on Route 128."

Letters incorporating the resolutions were forwarded to and acknowledged by Chairman Callahan and Public Works Commissioner John A. Volpe.

Spaulding to Be Ward 2 Candidate

Stuart M. Spaulding, of 136 Beaumont avenue, Newtonville, announced today his candidacy to the office of Ward Alderman, Ward 2. In making his announcement, he said that he has always been interested in Newton's progress and leadership in municipal affairs. An alderman, he will work to contribute to both Newton's progress and leadership, he stated.

A native of Newton, Spaulding attended the Newton public schools and studied electronics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In 1946, after being associated with the radio industry for several years, he established the Spaulding Radio Company in Newtonville.

He served in the U. S. Coast Guard during World War II and he is a past director of Newton Post No. 48 American Legion.

He is currently vice president of the Massachusetts Junior Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the Newton Community Council Juvenile Delinquency Committee, director of the Newtonville Improvement Association.

He is a member of the Newton Rotary Club, Newton Chamber of Commerce, Newton Human Relations Committee, Newton Auxiliary Fire Department, Red Cross Disaster Committee, Massachusetts Civic League, and was a delegate to the Massachusetts Pre-Primary Convention in 1952.

He is past president of the Newton Junior Chamber of Commerce, former president of the Newton Y. M. C. A. Softball League, and was chairman of the Tenley Albright Welcoming Committee earlier this year.

Spaulding married the former Dorothy Lawson of Newton and is the father of two children, Ronald, 7, and Scott, 9 months. His father, Charles R. Spaulding, was supervisor of instrumental music for many years in the Newton Public Schools.

near Temple Emanuel, Newton Centre, last February.

Hugh Harwood, retired chairman of the Newton Licensing Board, defending the action of the Board in imposing the 10-day suspension, asserted that the type of offense was one that should not be treated lightly at a time when juvenile delinquency was on the increase.

The case was presented to the ABC by Police Lt. George W. O'Neil and witnesses including the youth, who allegedly purchased five quarts of beer; Sgt. John W. Foley, Jr., who directed the rounding up of five youths involved in the Newton Centre fracas, and Inspector Charles W. Lynch.

The 10-day license suspension started August 3 and ended yesterday (Wednesday).

In the old days, the evening's entertainment was opened with a hymn—now it takes jacks or better.

quarters for the Public Buildings Department shops and be suitable for storage. At the same time the Willow street fire house is in disreputable condition, but part of the building might be retained for the Wire Department, as at present located, many of its calls require the use of Summer street, which is one-way and frequently plugged with traffic.

Accordingly it is recommended that an ideal central location could be had for this station at the corner of Walnut and Homer streets on city-owned land, set back sufficiently from the corner so that easy access could be had to four different roads, supplying prompt service in four different main-line directions.

"The situation on the north side of the city is that the West Newton fire house is in very bad condition and amounts to a risky building particularly at the rear. "The Newtonville Station is known to be out dated and to have outlived its use."

"The Nonantum fire house is not essential in its location because dual coverage can be instantly supplied from Newton Corner as well as from the proposed new location beside the Water Department yard on Watertown street. This house could advantageously contain the present equipment from the West Newton house, the Newtonville house and the Nonantum fire station all of which were located as at present in the horse-drawn days for reasons entirely different from those of today. Such an arrangement would merely call at a later date for the addition of apparatus in due course in the present Auburndale and Waban stations, which would also cover West Newton Hill by motor-driven apparatus.

"In recent months the City has lost its recreation storage building on the Newton Center Play-ground and the mayor recommends that the present Newtonville fire station could act satisfactorily for the time being for this purpose.

"It is further desired—and the petition has been circulated repeatedly—that a Library be located in Nonantum. This would be ideal where Engine 8 is located at present.

"In my opinion the above facts and others should be given consideration, as the mature recommendation of the Planning Board, who made up the schedule in which the replacement of these Fire Houses was proposed, was given the deepest study at the same time that other matters were considered."

Congressional Campaign Off to Unusually Early Start... 1954 Battle Will Be Vital to Both Political Parties...

From the amount of talk and discussion in Washington about the next Congressional election one might be led to believe that it was only two months instead of more than 14 months away.

Headquarters of both the Republican and Democratic national committees report that the Congressional campaign already is underway in earnest and that in many sections of the country the Congressmen are engaged in political fence-mending and in getting the public reaction to what they did and didn't do at their recent session.

That isn't true in Massachusetts, where gerrymanders have made most of the Congressional districts either preponderantly Republican or Democratic, and the average Congressman doesn't maintain the close ties with his constituents that are necessary in tight sectors where there is a critical ebb and flow to the political tide.

Some Bay State Congressmen might also point out that they don't know what the exact makeup of their district will be next year, for there is a strong likelihood that the Legislature will revise some of the districts in an attempt to solidify two or three Republican Congressmen and, if possible, to pick up a seat or two for the G.O.P.

A Plot That Failed

Court Praises Newton Man In 'Immoral' Extortion Case

A 65-year-old Newton man risked his reputation in Municipal Court Monday to identify two men police were holding on extortion charges.

Judge Jennie L. Barron praised the man for "a great service to society" after he testified that Theodore Self, 45, and Merle Revell, 48, had extorted $1,000 from him by threatening to charge him with making an immoral suggestion to one of them.

The Newton man said he met Revell in the restroom of a railroad station July 13 and that Revell flashed a police badge, identified himself as a Boston policeman and accused the man of an immoral approach. The following day, Revell went to his place of employment and told the Newton man that the "sergeant wants to see you."

Revell then took him to a restaurant where he was introduced to Self, who was identified as a police sergeant, it was said. The Newton man agreed to provide a $1000 bond and took a taxi to his home with Self where he wrote out a check for the bond, he testified.

Det. Michael J. O'Brien arrested the men in the South End of Boston on suspicion several weeks after the Newton man had been victimized. "I thank you for coming here," Judge Barron told the Newton man. "All too often, good men and women are reluctant to testify to the truth in cases such as this. The court regrets whatever embarrassment may come to your family."

Proposed Toll Road Terminus Would Affect Some Valuations

Should Commonwealth avenue in this city become the principal outlet into Boston for traffic from the proposed eastern terminus at Weston of the trans-state toll highway, it is feared that the valuation loss would be in excess of $30,000,000 on Commonwealth avenue, Mayor Theodore R. Lockwood stated at a meeting of Newton, officials and city leaders last week.

Mayor Lockwood proposed that the eastern terminus of the toll road be moved three-quarters of a mile north to the Newton-Waltham line. VALUATIONS (Continued on Page 8)

Is Formed to Promote Civic Responsibility

Members of the nominating committee of the Newton Civic Association met this week to prepare a slate of officers of the new organization formed to promote efficient, representative and responsible government in the City of Newton and to encourage citizens to take an active interest in civic affairs. The group will encourage and support the candidacy of reliable and competent men and women to seek election to public office and support intelligent wholesome leadership in public affairs.

A Board of five officers and forty directors will be elected by the membership at a public meeting Tuesday, September 8, at the Newton Highlands Workshop at 8 p.m. Interested citizens may join the Newton Civic Association at the opening meeting or by obtaining membership blanks from members of the Nominating Committee. Members of the Association will have the privilege of voting at the first election.

It is expected that after thoughtful consideration of the merits of the candidates for municipal office, the Board of Directors will be prepared to endorse the candidates whom they feel are most highly qualified for election in November.

Red Cross Is Aiding Victims Of Earthquake

In view of the recent earthquakes in Greece, William Falconer, Chairman of the Newton Chapter, American National Red Cross, announces the role of Red Cross in the work of relief to the more than 100,000 homeless.

The Greek government and Greek Red Cross are engaged in rescue and relief operations. The Greek Ambassador has requested the American Red Cross to assume responsibility in the United States for collecting relief funds for the Greek Red Cross. Collection of clothing and other items of material assistance here is not contemplated and should not be undertaken. The Greek Ambassador urges active support of the appeal by Greek national organizations and societies in the United States. Anyone desiring to express sympathy for the disaster victims by contributing to the relief fund may send contributions, so designated, to the Newton Chapter, 21 Foster street, Newtonville, for forwarding to the Greek Red Cross.

Seeks To Open Branch Office At Nonantum

To provide more convenient banking facilities for the Nonantum section of Newton, the directors of the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Co. have voted to apply for permission to establish a new office to serve that area, it has been announced by William M. Cahill, president of the bank.

Application for the proposed Nonantum Office has been filed with the Board of Bank Incorporation, and a public hearing will be held at the State House on September 10.

The bank now offers complete banking service through 14 neighborhood offices in three communities. Locally, its offices are in Auburndale, Newton, Newton Centre, Newton Highlands, Newtonville, Waban, and West Newton. Five offices are maintained in Waltham, and one in Weston. Opening of new quarters in Nonantum will be in line with the bank's policy of bringing its facilities within easy reach of all sections of the territory it serves.

Will Play At Williamsport, Pa. Next Week

They came, they saw, they conquered, and that just about sums up the amazing Newton North Little League All-Stars as they won the championship of Region 2 at Woburn Monday, defeating the Warwick, R. I., team 5 to 0 in the final play-off game of the three-state title series.

By winning this game, the local lads established themselves as champions of 305 Little Leagues in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, and will go to Williamsport, Pa., the end of this week to compete for the championship of the entire country, Canada and Hawaii.

This is the first time in the short but amazing history of Little League, that a Massachusetts team will take part in the World Series.

In the game Monday evening, Buddy Ryan, a calm, smooth southpaw, pitched Newton to the championship by spacing six Rhode Island hits. His control was almost perfect, as he walked only one batter and struck out 11.

Milton Bell, one of the outstanding players in the tournament, pitched for Warwick. He almost matched Ryan in strikeouts with 10 and gave up only one more hit, but the Newtonites made them count.

Third baseman Buddy Russo and Rightfielder Dave Seeley rank right up with Ryan as heroes of the exciting, well-played game that was witnessed by 2700 fans.

Russo lined a home run over the right centerfield fence in the third inning, and knocked in another pair of runs with a double in the sixth.

Seeley turned in one of the most spectacular catches ever seen on a Little League field to spoil what could have been a big inning for the Rhode Islanders.

Tony Lombardi opened the Warwick fifth with a single. John Migliaccio followed with a savage, sinking liner to right center. The left-handed Seeley broke immediately and came up with a diving, glove-handled catch. — ALL STARS (Continued on Page 8)

Newton GI Is Listed With POW Dead

Among the 120 names reported last Thursday by the Communists as having died in prisoner-of-war compounds was that of Pfc. Edwin L. Mitchell, son of Mrs. Grace Mitchell of 120 Church street, Newton.

However, the Defense Department, in telegraphing the sad news to his next of kin, said that a further check to establish the identities of the men was being made and that there had been no verification of death.

Pfc. Mitchell, 22, had three sisters and six brothers, five of whom were veterans of World War II. He attended Northboro public schools and enlisted in 1949.

Pfc. Mitchell is married, and his wife, Mrs. Mary Lou (Rice) Mitchell, lives at 365 Oxford street, Auburn, with their 2-year-old daughter Patricia, whom he had never seen.

His six brothers are Milton and Clifford, both of Newton; William of West Newton; Walter and Harold of Cambridge; and Robert of Arizona. His sisters are Mrs. Eunice Wadsworth of Warren, R. I.; Mrs. Edna Scales of Oakdale, and Mrs. Helen Baker of Newton.

MR. AND MRS. ANTHONY MANDILE, of 196 Jackson street, Newton Centre, stand proudly beside their Night Blooming Cereus, a rare plant which blooms but a few hours, once a year. The event this year occurred Monday evening with the buds starting to break about 7 p.m., and reaching full bloom around 10 o'clock. From then on until 1 a.m., Tuesday, the blossoms started to fade. The Century dictionary defines the Cereus as any plant of the cactaceous genus Cereus, of the warmer parts of America, ac C. giganteus, sometimes growing to a height of 50 feet, or C. grandiflorus (night blooming cereus), bearing fragrant flowers opening at night. Little Champs To Leave for Series End of This Week

Newton North All-Stars, pride of the Garden City, will leave for Williamsport, Pa., either Saturday or Sunday to participate in the World Series games, according to Commissioner "Jim" Murphy.

The championship play-off games will be held in the Pennsylvania city August 25, 26 and 27, with the finals being held August 28.

Word has been received that Newton North will play its first World Series game next Tuesday afternoon, but which team they will meet at that time remains to be decided. However, Commissioner Murphy is confident that the Newton boys will give a good account of themselves and he expects them to return here the World Champs of the Little Leagues.

Newton Homes Soon to Use Gas Mixture

Newton, along with a few other communities, will begin using natural gas mixed with manufactured gas within four to six weeks, according to an announcement made by the Boston Consolidated Gas Company. Consumers, it is stated, will probably notice no difference in the performance of their appliances and no adjustments will have to be made, company officials indicated.

Newton, along with Waltham, will remain tied in to the Boston Consolidated Gas Company's main plant in Everett even after the change-over. For this reason, this area will have the mixed gas product. Since the area is about the most heavily populated in the company's system, not having to convert to pure natural gas, will result in considerable money and time savings.

That's always a risky procedure, of course, because of the ever-present possibility that the long-range strategy may misfire and that in strengthening their hand in one district they may weaken it in another to the extent of losing control.

The early reports coming out of Washington concerning the activity of Congressmen in many States point up the importance which both parties attach to the 1954 elections and the fact that they will be playing for high political stakes.

From the Republican standpoint it will be a vital election, for it would be a disastrous political setback if the G.O.P. were to lose control of Congress after only two years in power.

Yet, the cold political facts made it clear that the Republican party faces no easy task next year and that there may be some basis for the optimism of the Democrats who see the 1954 election as a stepping stone to the 1956 Presidential election, when President Eisenhower is not expected to seek reelection another term.

Eisenhower's tremendous popularity last November was responsible for swinging many votes to Republican candidates for Governor, the U. S. Senate and the national House, and a substantial number of G.O.P. standard-bearers owed their elections to the nation-wide trend for Ike.

Despite that factor which weighed heavily in their favor and the landslide proportion of the Eisenhower victory, the Republicans gained control of the two Houses by only the narrowest of margins.

Can the G.O.P. do as well or even better next year, when President Eisenhower's name will not be on the ballot?

If you attempt to analyze all the factors which would have to be weighed before undertaking an answer to that question, you will understand why the Republican high command is launching its Congressional campaign a year ahead of time.

The political record books show that the party out of power has gained strength in every mid-term election in modern history—except in 1934, when Franklin D. Roosevelt was at the height of his popularity.

G.O.P. strategists, of course, are hoping that Dwight D. Eisenhower will be at the height of his popularity in 1954, and that it will cause a wave of public support for Republican candidates for Congress.

Political scholars who have been studying the situation report that the odds favor the Republicans maintaining control of the U. S. Senate but that the balance of power in the House may shift to the Democrats.

The way they reason it is this: With the vacancy caused by Senator Taft's death still unfilled, there are 47 Democrats, 47 Republicans and one Independent in the Senate.

There will be 35 contests next year for Senate seats, 21 of which are now held by Democrats and 13 by Republicans. If Ohio's Governor Lausche names a Democrat to succeed Taft, it would increase the number of Democratic posts up for election to 22.

Massachusetts is one of four states where the political pundits consider the Democrats have a real chance of picking up a seat held by a Republican. To do that, of course, they must oust Leverett Saltonstall, but after ex-Senator Lodge's defeat in the Eisenhower landslide, the experts believe that Saltonstall faces a fight to hold his seat.

The other states where the Democrats are regarded as having the strongest possibility of overturning Republican Senators are Kentucky, Michigan and Idaho.

On the other hand, the G.O.P. will set its political sights on Senate seats held by Democrats in Illinois, Delaware, Minnesota, Iowa, Montana, Wyoming and New Mexico—and in Ohio, if Governor Lausche names a Democrat to replace the late Senator Taft.

In other words, as the political seers now see it, bitter fights for the Senate will be waged in 11 doubtful states for places held at present by four Republicans and seven Democrats, and that setup seemingly favors the G.O.P.

There are 80 close House districts where the election of either a Democrat or a Republican is considered possible. With two vacancies in the House caused by the deaths of Republicans, the body is now comprised of 219 Republicans, 213 Democrats and one Independent.

This situation is one that favors the Democrats who could gain control of the House by picking up five additional seats.

President Eisenhower probably will hold the key to this intricate political picture, and a great deal will depend on whether the barometer of his personal popularity goes up or down in the next 12 months.

Republican strategists declare that the President is planning a number of moves next year, including a reduction in income taxes, which will strengthen him with the voters, and they believe that Ike is more popular with the people today than when he assumed office. They are basing their plans and their hopes on his popular appeal.

Democratic politicians, however, assert that Ike may not be in a position to sound a general partisan appeal and to tell the people that all Republicans are good and all Democrats are bad.

They point out that Democratic votes saved President Eisenhower from defeat on several occasions during the recent Congressional session and made possible some of his most important victories.

Is Ike, they ask, going to call for the election of Republican Congressmen who opposed his proposals and the defeat of Democratic Congressmen who supported his policies?

That may prove a tricky question for President Eisenhower.

Cong. McCormack Possible Party Chairman

Congressman John W. McCormack is now being mentioned in Washington for possible election as the new chairman of the Democratic National Committee this fall.

Stephen Mitchell has been unable to bring together the opposing wings of the Democratic party, and it is expected that he will relinquish his post as national committee chairman within the next few months.

While the competent, hard-working McCormack unquestionably would make an excellent head for the national committee, he also is needed in Congress.

No other Northern Congressman commands the same respect from the Southern Democrats as does McCormack. Even the Dixiecrats agree that he is able, fair and honest and while they disagree with some of McCormack's policies they accept him as a leader and as the second ranking Democrat in the national House.

McCormack, who usually puts in a 12- or 14-hour work day, could hardly assume the additional chore of running the Democratic national committee, and it would be practically unthinkable to suggest that he resign from Congress.

Others being discussed in informed Democratic circles as possible successors to Mitchell are former Postmaster General James A. Farley, the old pro of the first two Roosevelt terms; former OPS Administrator Michael DiSalle of Ohio and former Senator Myers of Pennsylvania.

Farley, despite his gerat organizing ability, would be bitterly opposed by the liberal wing of the Democratic party and probably wouldn't take the job anyway. Myers does not shape up as any political ball of fire. But, rely, poly Mike DiSalle might be the man who could pull together the various elements and factions in the Democratic party.

Adlai Stevenson, who reportedly will assume command of the Democratic party on his return to this country, undoubtedly will have the final voice in picking the new national chairman.

Boston's Mayor John B. Hynes was sounded out some time ago as to whether he would be interested in the job but declared he was not available for it and would not consider it.

Senator Estes Kefauver, who was the strongest contender against Adlai Stevenson for the Democratic Presidential nomination last year, appears to have dropped out of the national spotlight.

Kefauver still has Presidential ambitions and is planning another drive in 1956, but few old-line politicians concede him any real chance.

It is now revealed in Washington that President Eisenhower had decided to step up the war in Korea in an attempt to end the stalemate there. It would have been pretty close to all-out war, with a blockade of the Chinese and amphibious landings behind the communist lines, according to reports.

Word apparently leaked to the Chinese, and it caused them to stop stalling and indicate their willingness to resume negotiations and eventually resulted in the pact that brought an end to the fighting.

RANDOM CLIPPINGS

A British flight lieutenant, who was shot through the heart with a .303 caliber rifle bullet, is alive and well, thanks to a new arterial transfusion process, the British Medical publication reports. The bullet is still lodged in his body but is apparently causing no harm.

Doctors in Modena, Italy, recently operated successfully on Mirco Mondini, who for the previous 24 months let out a sharp whistle whenever he opened his mouth. The boy swallowed a mouthpiece of a toy trumpet. Doctors found it lodged in his bronchial tube and removed it.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon is studying to qualify for a promotion in the Naval Reserve, hopes to achieve the rank of commander and has until next July 1 to qualify for the promotion. His courses are in naval intelligence and international law.

Investia, official Soviet government newspaper, recently deplored that the fact that clowns, particularly funny clowns, have all but vanished from Russian newspapers. The paper demanded that immediate steps be taken to train new clowns and stressed the need for more and funnier jokes. Maybe Malenkov can provide some.

Former Baseball Czar A. B. (Happy) Chandler is attempting a political comeback in Kentucky but is finding the going rough as a result of a feud with Governor Lawrence Wetherby whom he is striving to succeed.

RE. WALTER CHAMLIN, JR.

One of the major goals of the Eisenhower Administration is to streamline the giant Federal bureaucracy and return many of its present functions to the states and to the people.

Simultaneously, the Administration wants the remaining federal departments and agencies to operate as efficiently and economically as possible with a minimum of competition with private industry.

These are the joint aims of two commissions authorized by Congress at the request of President Eisenhower. They are the new Hoover Commission and a commission on Federal-State relations.

You will be hearing a great deal in the next few months about this campaign to cut big government down to size and get people out of the habit of running to Washington with all their problems.

These commissions will study virtually every phase of government. Some experienced legislators say their reports—plus action upon them—will answer the question: Is big Federal government too big to be controlled?

Former President Herbert Hoover, at 79, has yielded to requests that he head the new commission which is instructed to study the Federal government. He sees in it an opportunity to chart a path to bolster private enterprise, cut taxation, lessen bureaucratic rule and improve governmental efficiency.

Other members of the commission are: Senators Ferguson (R.-Mich.) and McClellan (D.-Ark.), Representatives Brown (R.-Ohio) and Hollifield (D.-Cal.); former Postmaster-General James A. Farley; Joseph P. Kennedy, former Ambassador to Great Britain; Robert G. Storey, President of the American Bar Association; Dean S. C. Hollister of the Cornell University School of Engineering; Arthur Flemming, Director of the Office of Defense Mobilization; Attorney-General Herbert Brownell, and Sidney A. Mitchell, New York investment banker who has had considerable experience in the Federal Government.

The new commission has an even bigger task than the first Hoover Commission on reorganization of the government. The new commission not only seeks to improve efficiency in bureaus, but also will recommend measures for "reducing expenditures to the lowest amount consistent with the efficient performance of essential services, activities and functions; eliminating duplication and overlapping of services, activities and functions;

abolishing services, activities and functions not necessary to the efficient conduct of government, and eliminating non-essential services, functions and activities which are competitive with private enterprise."

Mr. Hoover himself pointed to the huge growth of big Federal government, saying that in the last twenty years it has expanded from 400 different agencies to over 1,500; from about 600,000 employees to over 2,400,000, and expenditures have risen from about $4 billion to over $70 billion.

The Eisenhower Administration also wanted a study made of the ability and willingness of state, county and city governments to recapture many functions taken from them by the Federal government during the last twenty years. This will be done by the new Commission on Inter- Governmental Relations, which will consist of twenty-five members. President Eisenhower is seeking the best qualified persons for the monumental task.

The duties of this commission include "a study of the proper role of the Federal government in relation to the states and their political subdivisions, to the end that these relations may be clearly defined and the functions concerned may be allocated to their proper jurisdiction."

The commission must deal with such problems as Federal incursion into the domain of local governments in carrying out Federal aid programs of many kinds, proper allocation of tax sources, social security, aid to education, construction of highways and many other similar matters.

Some state officials have urged the Federal government to get completely out of highway construction and let gasoline taxes be the exclusive revenues for the states. There is a continuing struggle in Congress between those favoring Federal aid to education, and those insisting that it is a state and local responsibility.

Recently the 45th Annual Governors' Conference adopted resolutions demanding that big Federal government be cut down, and the power and responsibilities of the states be enlarged.

As a part of the question of tax allocation, the Eisenhower Administration has made known that it expects to present to Congress a new excise tax program. Many business groups have repeatedly urged general consumption taxes to replace the present discriminatory excise taxes and that some sources of revenue be left entirely to the states.

The work of the two commissions may not be spectacular. But they can — and probably will — be a potent force in changing the course of the Republic in the years ahead.

TELE-VIEWING THE NEWS

By LEE LOUMOS

For some reason that escapes us, each of our TV news items for today seems to have something to do with money. For instance, there's news that Ed Gardner, for years the star of the Duffy's Tavern program on radio, has signed a three-year contract for a video show based on the old radio favorite. The budget is set at $45,000 for each filmed program... with 39 a year... making a grand total of $1,755,000 for the 117 films!

A lot of his fans don't realize it, but Jack Benny can really play the violin. He studied for three years under Yale's great violin professor, Hugo Kortschak. And, although Jack gave up his dreams of being a concert violinist when he took to comedy on the stage, he still practices in his leisure time... on an $1800 French Vuillaume! That's expensive practice on any fiddle!

To show you that the money Ed Gardner is getting for his TV films isn't unusual these days of high costs, there's the report on the new Ray Bolger variety show (he's the famous Broadway dancer and comedian). It has a budget of $42,500 per show. There's a lot of money invested in television's future. This investment is made for your enjoyment. When you get needs service, be sure you get the best repairs possible by qualified technicians. You can depend on the service at

Good Rules to Follow In Case Fire Breaks Out in Your Home

The first consideration in fire equipment in the home is in a community having a Fire Department is to definitely learn how to call the Fire Department and to teach every member of the household how to do it. Here in Newton the telephone number is Bigelow 4-0030. The location of the nearest fire alarm box should be learned and how it operates.

The modern city home has running water in the basement, kitchen and bathroom. A pail located in the basement, a saucepan or the dishpan in the kitchen, or a basin or pail in the bathroom makes a very effective device with which small fires can be extinguished. Garden hose from the faucet in the yard can be used on grass fires or sparks from the chimney. Such garden hose has been very effective on fires inside buildings and there are numerous cases where special faucets have been provided on stair landings in attics and in cellars with short lengths of hose kept attached so that it could be used for fire fighting. Numerous cases are on record where automatic sprinkler heads have been installed in basements of dwelling houses.

Some fires in the home cannot be effectively fought with water. These are principally fires involving grease and they all generally occur in the kitchen. The throwing of water into a frying pan or other receptacle full of grease which might be ignited will often result in a large burst of flame and the spattering of the grease over the persons in the room. The first consideration in connection with a fire of this kind is to extinguish the flame producing the heat, that is shut off the gas or oil flow, or turn off the electricity or remove the vessel from the stove if it is a coal or wood burning stove. The quickest method of extinguishing burning grease in a receptacle of this kind is to place a cover over it, start at one side and slip the cover across the whole surface.

A very effective extinguishing agent for grease fires, particularly of the kind that forms in the broiler of a gas stove, is ordinary cooking soda. A handful of this thrown across the blaze in such a way as to form a cloud of soda dust will quickly extinguish the fire. Never use flour or any similar materials, as this instead of putting the fire out, will result in an explosion.

Where a fire is in a closet, closing the door will sometimes smother it out. In every case, close any door which will tend to confine the fire.

There are several features of home fire fighting which must be remembered.

First see that everyone is out of the building or out of danger.

Call the Fire Dept.

Second, never attempt to fight a fire in a cellar or basement which has become filled with smoke. The fumes are poisonous, and the lack of air may quickly overcome a person.

Third, don't try to enter a room where much fire is in evidence.

Fourth, remember that a woman is not dressed for fire fighting, and that a cotton dress will quickly ignite. A human life is worth more than any building or its contents.

Fifth, money spent for prevention, such as for ash trays, approved electrical wiring and appliances, repairs to chimneys, new stovepipe, metal waste and ash cans, fireproof cellar ceilings and fire resistive roofs, is more worth while than that for extinguishing equipment.

Sixth, insurance will pay for losses; therefore keep your property and goods insured to their full value, be careful of hazards and call the Fire Department, but don't ask women and children, who are the usual occupants of the home, to endanger their lives with fire fighting. Clean up—don't burn up.

Takes Prominent Part in Play "Kiss and Tell" in Wyoming

Winslow Clark W. Tisdell, freshman engineering student at the University of Wyoming, played the part of Sergeant Earhart in the Summer Session, the production of the F. Hugh Herbert comedy, "Kiss and Tell," presented Aug. 13-14, at the Wyoming College of Liberal Arts Auditorium, according to the University News Service of Laramie, Wyo. Guest Prof. Carl Cass directed the play.

Tisdell, only son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Tisdell, 6 Rowe street, Auburndale, enrolled at the University of Wyoming, College of Engineering June 15, immediately following his graduation from Newton High School. He was one of four senior student conductors of the Newton High School Marching and Concert Band at the graduation exercises June 6. He played tuba in the band both at Warren Junior High and Newton High.

At Newton High he had served with the stage crew and took part in "On Stage Everybody" in 1952 and in four square dance numbers in "Brigadoon," this year's spring musical show, and with the modern dance group at Christmas Vespers.

Born in Boston, Win Tisdell was brought up entirely in Auburndale, attending both Burr and Williams schools, and was for two years a student (1944-46) at Rumsey Hall School, then located at Cornwall, Conn., but since removed to Washington, Conn. He won his "Varsity" letter in football both at Rumsey Hall and at Levi F. Warren Junior High, where he graduated in 1950. He first played clarinet at junior high, then the tuba and sometimes bass drum and symbols. Besides the N.H.S. Marching and Concert Band, he also played with the Newton Symphony Orchestra.

During the month's interim, Aug. 21-Sept. 21, following the 10-weeks' Summer Session and opening of the Fall quarter at the University of Wyoming, Tisdell will work in Laramie, Wyo. He will then continue his engineering studies, along with basic courses with the U. S. Air Force Unit, ROTC. Winslow Tisdell's address is Wyoming Hall, University of Wyoming, Laramie, Wyoming.

right off the grass. Newton tallied its first run in the second inning when John Gill and Frank Donnellan singled. Gill came in on a passed ball.

Donnellan opened the final Newton with a walk. Al York beat out a bunt. Sam McLary moved them up with a sacrifice, whereupon Mr. Russo unloaded his two-bagger.

Ryan, showing an abundance of poise, kept the Warwick batters off stride by mixing his serves. He helped himself to two hits, knocking in one run.

Warwick had two fine chances to get back in the game, but alert Newton play cut off potential big innings. In the fourth, Warwick got the first three boys on but couldn't score. Roy Choiniere singled. Bell followed with a hard-hit grounder, which Russo bobbled, but recovered and deftly snapped a throw to second to nail Choiniere, who overran second. The other rally was snuffed out by young Mr. Seeley.

Explorer Encampment To Be Held At Otis Air Force Base

An Explorer Encampment will be sponsored by Norumbega Council, Inc., Boy Scouts of America in cooperation with the United States Air Force at Otis Air Force Base, Falmouth on Saturday and Sunday, September 19-20. It has been announced by Arthur M. Menard, Exploring Chairman of Norumbega Council.

One-hundred and twenty young men and their leaders will live at the base and have a busy two days inspecting the aircraft, touring the station, learning the rudiments of air flight and the operation of an air station in addition to sports, an ocean swim and meals at the regular mess halls. If possible there will also be an air flight.

Explorer, a member of a Troop over 14 years of age or a member of an Explorer Post is eligible to take part in this encampment. Explorers may register for this week-end trip by contacting their Scoutmaster or Advisor who will register his group. Each unit is responsible for leadership and transportation. One adult is required for every ten boys and there will not be enough vacancies for more than one leader for every four boys.

This visit to an active jet intercepter base is more than just a tour since the young men have a real opportunity to explore aviation as a possible vocation. Officers and men of the base are assigned to the group to see that the boys get the most out of their stay and to instruct them in some of the phases of the military operation of aircraft including the aircraft shops, control tower, parachute loft and weather room. There will be an opportunity for the Explorers to operate a link trainer and the committee hopes to arrange for a flight in a military plane. The Post Exchange, theater and gymnasium will also be at the disposal of the young men.

This air encampment has been planned by the following committee: Chairman Edward Ross, Advisor of Air Squadron 1, Arthur Menard, John Sanroma, Capt. A. R. Taylor, and Marshall David, all of Newton.

tham line and that the road be continued along the city line into Watertown with an overpass at Watertown square. Such a route would result in about $2,000,000 loss of valuation in Newton. About 25 per cent of the road would pass through Waltham, the mayor stated.

The present proposal to end the toll road at Nickerson Field would result in a flood of traffic onto Commonwealth avenue which has a valuation in this city of $82,600,000. The increased traffic load could result in a loss of 40 per cent in valuation, Mayor Lockwood estimated.

DESIRES COMMITTEE FOR RENT CONTROL

Could Hear, Act on Every Complaint

Declaring that "rumors founded on both fancy and fact which seem to be rampant in Newton since abandonment of Rent Control, indicate a general dissatisfaction with the present situation," William E. Halliday, Jr., of 110 Cherry St., West Newton, in a letter sent to the Board of Aldermen Tuesday asks that a committee be established to deal with the situation.

He advocates the creation of a committee from the ranks of the Board of Aldermen together with such citizens representing all sides of the controversy as are willing to accept the trust.

He contends that "such action on behalf of the city government would have the effect of slowing down any unreasonable landlords, enabling the just landlord to present his side with nothing to fear, provide the Assessors with the owners' opinion of the value of rental property, and provide the Board of Aldermen with the proper information without emotion and pressure to act accordingly should the question be before the board again."

Mr. Halliday feels that this committee could "be available at stipulated times and places to hear and record complaints and record the vital facts necessary to truly judge what could be a dangerous situation."

This action on the part of the city authorities, Mr. Halliday believes, would correct the present uncertainty as, he states, "there is no method whereby our city government or the public can ascertain the true picture of Newton conditions."

Newton Man Is Listed As A PW Escaper

An Auburndale soldier was listed last Sunday by the Army as one of the 49 who the Communists said had escaped from Red prison camps.

He is M-Sgt. Richard A. Haley, 34, of 22 Charles street, Auburndale, who according to members of his family was reported by the Department of Defense only three weeks ago as dead. He was taken prisoner by the Communists in July, 1950.

Haley, a native of Newton and former student at the local high school, enlisted in the Army in 1940 and served three years in Panama before being transferred to the European Theatre of Operations. He participated in the invasion of France with the 66th Infantry, 71st Division.

After the war's end he remained on occupation duty in Europe with the First Division for a time, then was transferred to Japan. As a member of the 21st Infantry, 24th Division, he had been in battle only a short time after the Korean conflict started before he was taken prisoner.

Haley has two brothers, Leo, 35, of Auburndale, who served in both Europe and the Pacific in World War II, and William, a Navy chief now bound for Korea on the USS Ammen. He is the nephew of Mrs. Ann T. Forristall of 22 Charles street Auburndale.

Lovell to Be Candidate for Re-election

Ward 7 Alderman-at-Large Richard H. Lovell, 234 Park street, Newton, has announced that he will be a candidate for re-election in the forthcoming city election. Elected last January to fill a vacancy in the board, Mr. Lovell is a former member and chairman of the planning board, and has served on the public Buildings and Franchises and Licenses Committees of the present board of aldermen.

Mr. Lovell has lived in Newton since early youth, attending Newton schools and graduating from Newton High School in 1937. He is a graduate of Williams College and Yale Law School and served for four years with the Navy as a reserve officer.

He is married, with three children now attending Newton schools. He is a partner in the Boston law firm of Hill, Barlow, Goodale and Wiswall.

Is Overcome While Using Cyanide Gas

While spraying cyanide gas on the roof of his house in an attempt to rid it of a swarm of hornets, a West Newton man was overcome last week.

The victim Patsy DePasquale, 61, of 102 Webster Park, West Newton, managed to climb down a ladder to the ground before he collapsed. Police who responded to a call from the victim's wife, used four tanks of oxygen to revive him.

Taking part in the rescue were Patrolmen Richard Nugent, John J. Coffey, Lawrence Maffioli, John Kennedy and Mario Marino.

- - Jamboree Jottings - -

by Salvatore DeFazio III, Scribe
III—ADVENTURE AT THE JAMBOREE

Our campsite was situated on a hill near the center of the Jamboree grounds. In late afternoon we of the Norumbega Jamboree Troop assembled some of the equipment provided for us and set about preparing and eating our supper.

Afterwards as we waited for additional equipment to be delivered we sat around and sang songs. When a double trailer truck came grinding up the hill we gave a resounding cheer and gathered around to receive our Patrol boxes, duffel bags, the Troop sign and other items of our equipment. Finally preparations were made for bunking down under the California sky.

Tuesday morning broke sunny and clear in the California tradition and we inspected our equipment. Then began the setting up of our camp. Charcoal stoves were assembled first, then breakfast was served. Later tents were erected according to the plan made previously on the train.

After dinner we took our cameras and boarded buses for a tour of nearby oil fields. As we sped north we looked with interest upon little stucco houses with their various wall gardens and lawns and upon the sail boats down in Balboa Harbor.

Our first stop was in Colorado Park where we were treated to ice cream. Oil wells were sprinkled over the countryside. Signal Hill was our next stop. Here was located the first oil pumping unit in California (still going, twenty years later). We paused to take pictures of Los Angeles in the distance and then went on to the Ford Lease stop. At this station we were taken over the grounds to see drilling equipment, crude oil being pumped from the ground and to learn something of refining methods. After the Huntington Beach oil area and the sight of active oil drilling we started back to camp.

Wednesday we had our first taste of the blue Pacific. Huntington Beach was reserved for the Boy Scouts at the time and we enjoyed rolling and ducking in the surf. All safety precautions were taken. Even a helicopter flew watch above us.

The afternoon brought us to visit a "ghost town" set up in the fashion of three-quarters of a century ago. The town was complete with old style buildings and even had a railroad in action. We picked up 10-gallon hats and other souvenirs and talked with the "medicine man" and other characters that gave the town atmosphere.

By Thursday our campsite had taken shape as planned. Our gateway let all comers know who we were even before they arrived at our doorstep. On its top there was a painting of a Norse ship barking against heavy seas. An English translation of the inscription read, "All friends are welcome here." The lower section showed a big "N" on a tower like our Norumbega tower back home and below it there was a fish to suggest Cape Cod. Nearby we set up a Scout register and guest book.

Friday, July 17 was the official opening of the Jamboree. At General Headquarters a spectacular flag raising ceremony was held with flags of many nations raised in a special "Hall of Flags." There were exhibits of everything, including craft displays, talent contests and Indian dances. Swapping took place mainly in the swapping tent, but road-sides and corners often held several Scouts from distant parts of the world in sessions of inspection and swapping with much deliberation.

Throughout the week friendship was evident in every part of the camp. It seemed a sort of symbol for the rest of the world that if 50,000 Boy Scouts could live in friendship it must be a thing for all of mankind.

The Jamboree was one big city. We were all its citizens. General Headquarters was the capital. From it came the orders that affected all the camp. And, here too, was the press tent, Western Union and exhibits by Boy's Life.

Six trading posts were located on the Jamboree site, and each had a refreshment stand as well as sales counters. At section headquarters there was an administrative unit, commissary, first aid set-up, showers and staff quarters.

Saturday evening we saw the Roy Rogers show and had a big campfire. Sunday our unit took part in the special religious services. In the evening Vice-president Nixon shared in our candle-light ceremony.

From Monday to Friday we had personal glimpses of movie stars and saw rodeos, fireworks, a jet air show and many other spectacular things. The week flew by so fast we could hardly remember all that took place.

On Thursday we began breaking camp to be ready first thing on Friday, the last day. Our last night, like the first, we slept under the stars. It was rise and shine at 5:00 the next morning (a miserable time to get up, but necessary if we were to meet our train for home).

Since most of our packing had already been done, we were ready in short order for the truck that came to pick up our equipment. After breakfast we did a thorough packing job of our campsite to make sure that all pieces of paper and debris were properly disposed of and the place left spick and span in true Scout procedure. By 8:45 we were on board the buses and heading for our train.

We passed rapidly out of the city, into plains, deserts and barren hills. A box lunch was served at noon and in the mid-afternoon, when we had reached Nevada, we stopped for a few minutes and stretched our legs. Evening came upon us quickly and provided a beautiful sunset over the Nevada hills.

By morning we were in Salt Lake City again, and we switched to a steam locomotive. Lunchtime found us in Ogden, Utah and shortly thereafter we headed across the lower half of Idaho, following the Snake River to Oregon.

We left the train in Spokane, Washington on Sunday. After religious services and a dinner at the exclusive Hotel Davenport, we boarded buses for a ninety-two mile trip across plains and dusty roads to the largest concrete dam in the world—Grand Coulee Dam. We gazed in wonder at the more than 550 foot wall with its spraying waterfall, and we toured the generator plants that provide electricity for much of the Pacific coast. Our tour included a journey around and over the dam itself. We didn't arrive back at the train until late, but tired as we were, we felt this day, like the many before it, had brought a new wealth of knowledge.

It was nearly morning when we came to a little town in Montana called Whitefish. There we climbed into buses again and drove up a twisty road to the Big Mountain Ski Lodge. The weather was chilly but clear, and rising in a chair lift to the mountain top, we felt we had the world at our feet. Our cameras clicked double time to catch the marvelous sights.

After another short train ride we came to Glacier National Park and once again we clambered out for a side tour. We marvelled at the snow covered peaks and the tunnels hewn in the mountain sides. There were lakes and valleys and sometimes very sheer drop-offs. At Logan Pass there was snow—in July! With a telescope we could sight wild goats and brings wild flowers into close range. Our bus tour ended at the Glacier Park Hotel where we were greeted by several Blackfeet Indians who gave us a terrific show of tribal dances in full Indian costume against a background of chants and tom-tom rhythms.

Back on board the train we watched the monotonous plains roll by as we looked over our souvenirs and ate wild cherries. By nightfall we had come to Minnesota. Pillow fight rules were being enforced, so our nights on the train were much quieter and restful than on the trip out. In the morning we were once more in Chicago and again we dined at Fred Harvey's.

There was some delay in the departure of our train from Chicago and we used the time in inspecting the railroad station. When the bugler sounded assembly we hurried on board hoping to make up for lost time, but found another waiting period in store. But good cheer resounded in our songs as we whiled away the time. After a late supper in the diner, as we rolled along, we dozed off, while the lights of Pittsburgh sparkled outside our windows.

"Eat-as-you-wake-up" was the breakfast order, and it worked out very well. Long after we finished up we reached New York and the last leg of the homeward journey. We were eager to get home now and the time seemed to just drag until we crossed the Massachusetts border.

Several hours late, and after belongings were packed up for the last time and the car cleaned, we arrived in Boston and happily jumped aboard the bus to Newton City Hall and our anxious parents. Some 8,120 miles of rail-roading and nearly three weeks of traveling "alone" were completed. We'd been to the Jamboree!

Rep. Rawson Sees Fight to Aid Hospitals Over With New Bill

An act passed by the legislature to reimburse hospitals for indigent patients "will prove to be a great help to our sorely pressed voluntary hospitals," State Representative George E. Rawson predicted last week.

"This act is effective on Jan. 1, 1954, and provides that in 1954 voluntary hospitals shall be reimbursed for the care of such indigent patients (public welfare and other public assistance patients) up to $14 per day, $12 more than the present reimbursement."

Such help for hospitals has been sought by Rep. Rawson for several years. Last year a similar bill was passed by the legislature, but Gov. Paul A. Dever vetoed the measure.

"This act further provides," the Newton representative continued, "that there shall be, under the Commissioner of Administrations and Finance, a director of hospital costs and finances who shall, with the help of a seven-member advisory committee representing hospitals, the commonwealth and the public appointed by the governor, ascertain the cost of care of these indigent patients according to a uniform system of accounting."

"The cost so ascertained for each hospital or such rates as reflect reasonable charges made to the general public, whichever costs less, shall be paid to such hospitals after 1954."

"This act was the recommendation of the committee on public welfare, of which Rep. Irene K.

Fishing Major Sport at U.F. Playground

Fishing is rapidly becoming a favorite sport and means of recreation at the Upper Falls Playground. As many as a dozen boys per day, morning and evening, stroll down to the lower portion of the playground, fishing poles over their shoulders, bait in cans. The catch runs anywhere from a small perch to a large turtle.

At the present time there is a contest to see who will catch the largest fish before the end of the playground season.

Richard Terry recently caught a twelve inch sunfish and Edward DeGouff hooked a two and a half pound carp.

The boys catch many horned pout, and a turtle weighing as much as thirty pounds was caught recently from the banks of the Charles River.

The Midget Baseball team is rapidly taking over the lead in league play. Their record now stands at seven wins and one loss. Robert Delaney and Richard Murphy have been doing most of the pitching, and they display excellent records. The leading hitters on the team are David Quinn, Bobby Watson, Roger Babson, Richard DeGaufr, John Kelley and Cliff Gaysunas.

Children, Parents in Playday At Peirce School Playground

Children and parents joined at the Peirce School Playground, West Newton, recently to celebrate a month's participation in Newton's citywide recreation program with a playday.

The program, given under the direction of Mrs. Walter Tower with the assistance of Paul Keyes, included races, games and contests for the older boys and girls. The younger group, in addition to their usual activities, played singing games.

Handicrafts made during July were exhibited in the craft room of the Peirce School. These were supervised by Mrs. Beverly Brekke and Henry DeRusha of the Newton Recreation Department.

Families and friends were invited to bring their lunches, join the fun, and see the enthusiasm and organization which had led to the singular success of this community enterprise sponsored by the Recreation Department under Commissioner C. Evan Johnson and District Supervisor, Mrs. Ragna Hovgaard. Guests included Mrs. Worthing West, only woman member of the Recreation Commission, and Aldermen Kenneth Prior and Ernest Angevine, represented by Mrs. Angevine.

An outstanding feature of the Peirce Playground has been a co-operative play group for pre-school children which has offered painting, coloring, simple crafts and sports as well as story telling and sandbox play supervised by volunteer mothers.

Those who have helped include the following Mesdames D. E. Bowen, David Cooper, F. R. Daubek, G. Farrell, Eli Golub, Beckett Jones, Leon Levinson, R. A.

New strand link now widely used on cable projects

It's called a strand link and you'll be seeing many of them put to work in Massachusetts this year. Looking like a 9-inch aluminum cigar, it simplifies the job of connecting the wire that supports telephone cables. Just insert wire in each end, and pull. The more the tension the tighter its grip.

Many of these links were recently used in the Worcester-Southbridge area, others in connection with the dial conversion at North Wilbraham; more went onto the cable route over the Mohawk Trail and between Otis and North Adams.

Each link that is used results in material and labor costs about two dollars less than the costs of the former method of connecting wire.

The strand link is only one example of the cost-cutting innovations being put to use in Massachusetts, and throughout the company generally. Because present day costs of providing telephone service are so much higher than they used to be, it is necessary that every practicable cost-cutting idea be used.

Cost-cutting devices such as this have helped us keep telephone costs from rising any higher than they have.

N-W Hospital Trustees Hear Favorable Reports at Meeting

Favorable reports from the chairman of the leading committees of the board were read last week at the regular mid-Summer meeting of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital trustees in the Usen Auditorium at the hospital.

Reporting as assistant treasurer, Samuel Brown noted that recent salary increases granted to nursing and non-nursing employees of the hospital would add as much as $25,000 to the hospital's annual payroll. This will very likely require a rate increase of approximately $1.00 a day, which increase will be acted upon by the board of governors of the hospital.

For the coming year the hospital may anticipate a reduction of $7,000 in the amounts received from Blue Cross due to an adjustment in payment schedules based on costs rather than charges and the levelling off of "pick-up" payments.

Receipt of $25,000 as part of the grant from the Community Chest will ease the hospital's cash position, Mr. Brown stated. These payments to the hospital are to provide for free care, which annually costs the hospital in excess of $100,000.

George S. Burgess, secretary of the board of governors, reported for this body and commented on the salary increases. Mr. Burgess also announced the following additions to the medical staff: Eugene N. Binder, John D. Fernald, Walter S. Kerr, H. Jane C. MacMillan, Richard J. Roche and Eugene C. Stone.

Drs. Albert C. Ferguson, John S. Hodgson and Charles W. Jones resigned from the medical staff. Leaves of absence were granted to Sumner N. Hoffman and Aaron Thurman. Dr. Kenneth Brown was advanced from courtesy staff to active staff to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. Ferguson.

Certain changes were authorized in the medical staff, including the advancement of some physicians from associate physician to physician and the advancement of out-patient physicians to associate physicians.

Resident appointments included Lillian Lukis, X-Ray; George A. Pothier, medicine, and Richard M. Marks, surgery. The new interns are Fred W. Klutznoff of Holland, David G. Millard of England and Salvatore Pelarogio of Italy.

The board of governors voted that the hospital should enter a six-months' agreement with the hospital purchasing agency to participate in commitment purchasing of certain items. It was also voted to continue the human relations program of the School of Nursing for a second year.

William Chase reported for the directors of the School of Nursing and commented on the graduation week activities. Mr. Chase reviewed affiliation commitments and remarked that the Human Relations program, the first of its kind in the country has been an outstanding success.

This program will be renewed for the coming year with first year students and continued for second year students on a less intensive schedule. One of the results of the program has been a drastically lowered withdrawal rate from the school.

Dr. Richard I. Smith reported for the executive committee of the medical staff and noted that a former resident physician at the hospital, Dr. Earl Davis had been awarded the Bronze Star for heroic action in Korea. Dr. Smith reviewed the intern situation and noted that seven medical students will serve as externs during the coming year.

Mrs. Paul Babson presented the report of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital Aid Association and summarized the activities of the Aid during Hospital Week. She also spoke about the aid's "Earn and Give" project by which funds are being raised for a post-operative recovery room. The ladies' aid has submitted a presentation on its hospital week activities to the auxiliary division of the American Hospital Association which will be judged at the September convention.

Dr. T. Stewart Hamilton, reporting as director of the hospital, noted that the census was somewhat higher than last year and that the average patient stay had remained about the same as a year ago. More babies have been born at the hospital during the current year than has previously been the case, with an all-time high for new-born reached in March.

Dr. Hamilton commented on Blue Cross changes and the success of the work simplification program pioneered by the personnel department under the direction of Miss Gertrude Loud. Dr. Hamilton also made reference to the master study of hospitals to be conducted over a five-year period by the United Community Services.

Dr. Edgar Holmes, chief of otolaryngology at the hospital, presented an illustrated lecture on "Plastic Surgery." Although Dr. Holmes warned his audience that the results to be anticipated from plastic surgery were limited, his pictures gave dramatic proof of the efficacy of the surgical measures taken in this field. The remarkable full-color slides gave adequate evidence of the accomplishments of the

Tennis Popular At The Burr Playground

"The smart thing for a young person to do is to become proficient in tennis." A successful Newton businessman gave this advice to a group of young people whom he was addressing a few years ago.

Several playgrounds in Newton have tennis courts and these courts are used at Burr Playground to their capacity. The wide range of ages of tennis players shows that youngsters to grandparents can enjoy this activity.

To aid those who wish to play the game of tennis well the instructors give a share of their time to encourage and smooth out individuals so that the game can be indulged in with satisfaction. It has been observed that paddle tennis makes for a good background and a fine feeder for tennis.

On the Burr Playground a beginners group drills twice each week. Any adult wishing help can get instruction in the early evening on two nights in the week. Among those devoting considerable time are: Barbara McLean, Joyce Wiggins, Patricia McLean, Sandra Grime, Jane Griffin, Louise LeFay, Anne LeFay, Paula Collier, Charles Snider, Bob Mullen, Thomas Vandershire, Richard Keaveney, Fred O'Hara, Paul Langan, Jay White, Martin McLaughlin and Fred McLaughlin.

A tournament open to all Newton Playground boys and girls has been planned at the Burr Playground on August 4th. The classes are four in number, namely: Boys - 15 and under; Boys - 13 and under; Girls - 15 and under; Girls - 13 and under. Competition is for awards that are to be presented by the Recreation Department to the winners of the matches. These awards are to be made at the home playground of the individual winner on the day of his or her field day.

Tennis play at the Burr Playground highlights the numerous activities of this busy play area. Many boys and girls have developed into talented players and have won many prizes in tournaments throughout the State but the majority just continue to play for the physical and mental relaxation of the players.

The instructors at Burr Playground are: Guy Baker, Helen Anderson, Constance Ober, Joan Lafford and Kevin Burns.

Creations In Sand Box Give Pleasures

The creative abilities of the children who attend Richardson playground were given an opportunity for expression in a group sand box project last week. The boys and girls planned, organized and constructed a miniature modern American city complete in detail and proportioned to size. Houses, skyscrapers, super-structure, over-pass highways, bridges and waterways, gardens and parks were included in the sand constructions.

The ages of the children ranged from 3 to 12 and included the following:

Steve and Geoffrey Lanes, Tommy and Anthony Gadinio, Jean and Jimmy Godino, Ardeth Miller, Susan and Micky Mordca, Joan DeGeorge, Peter Stephan, Beth Jerrell, Susan Diana Han, Marilyn Craven, Marilyn Warren and Edward Muise, Walter Mulock and Peter Dalton.

The instructors who guided these children in this unique project were Mrs. Helen Rooney and Miss Shirley Thurmond.

Degree Winner To Study at MIT

First recipient of a doctorate's degree from Technion, the M.I.T. of Israel, will be the first student to attend Massachusetts Institute of Technology on a scholarship set up by the Boston Stein Club.

Dr. Eliezer Mishkin, 36-year-old electrical engineer, was welcomed to MIT by Prof. Paul M. Chalmers, advisor of foreign students, and Oscar Horowitz of Newton, former president of the Stein Club and member of the Board of Directors of the American Technion Society here.

The Stein Club set up a special scholarship fund by which worthy students at Technion could be sent to MIT for specialized study. They then would return to teach at the Technion. In this way dollar credits are saved for Israel.

Dr. Karl T. Compton, chairman of the MIT trustees, and Dr. James R. Killian, president of the Cambridge Institute, backed the plan and granted free tuition to Technion students.

The scholarship fund was to be used to defray expenses here. Dr. Mishkin, who arrived here

VA News

Presumption of service-connection for dental conditions which appear within a year after discharge or separation from service has been eliminated and new eligibility requirements for out-patient dental care for veterans have been set up under Public Law 149, 83rd Congress, Philip A. Dundon, Contact Representative of Malden Veterans Administration announced.

The new law authorizes out-patient dental care for three types of cases, providing applications are filed within one year of the enactment of the law, which was signed by the President July 27, 1953.

Eligibility must be established under one or more of the following three classes:

1. Veterans having service-connected compensable dental conditions or disabilities, which means they must be rated 10 percent or more disabling.

2. Veterans having service-connected noncompensable dental conditions or disabilities where the dental condition or disability is shown to have existed at time of discharge; or

3. Veterans having a dental condition, whether or not service-connected, but medically determined to be aggravating a service-connected physical disability or injury.

Veterans who qualify for treatment under these conditions may be referred either on a fee basis to "home-town" participating dentists, or to VA dental clinics.

For all benefits pertaining to veterans and their dependents, applications may be made at Room 4, City Hall Annex, Contact Office, Monday through Friday, inclusive, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

In the eastern half of the U. S., Illinois leads the states with the highest reserves of bituminous coal—more than 168 billion tons.

A typical coal-carrying barge is 175 feet long, 26 feet wide, and has a capacity of about 1,000 tons.

Australia's record production of coal in 1952 totaled 19.5 million tons, about 4% U. S. production last year.

Several From Newton Now At Camp Drum

Several Newton residents are at Camp Drum, New York, undergoing summer training with one of the Army's newest type units, the 302nd Logistical Command, U. S. Army Reserve.

Leading the Newton contingent of the unit is Lt. Colonel John J. Hayes who is Deputy Commander of the 302nd. He is a veteran of World War II, who formerly commanded the 172nd Field Artillery Battalion. He is presently employed by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company and resides at 61 Pelham street, Newton Centre.

Judge Advocate of the 302nd is Captain Erwin E. Cooper of 8 Kirkstall road, Newtonville, a practicing attorney with offices in Boston, Mass. Captain Cooper is Regional Consul for Tau Epsilon Phi Fraternity, a member of the New Century Club and a veteran of World War II with service in Egypt, France and England. He is active in other civic and communal organizations.

A member of the Quartermaster section of the organization is Private Stanley Oland, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Oland of Newton Highlands.

Busy Hands at The Angier Playground

Amid the scraping of saws and the tapping of hammers, a busy craft program was launched at Angier Playground this summer. Under the expert guidance of Mr. Henry DeRusha, the boys and girls started their various projects. The program was there after continued with three sessions a week devoted to craft. Two sessions were under the supervision of the playground director, and the third was held on the day of Mr. DeRusha's weekly visit.

Metal work and leather craft were combined with woodwork, the old standby, to form a well rounded program of crafts. Using small pieces of metal, the children fashioned embossed ashtrays and initialed bracelets. Articles of wood, however, were in the greatest demand. A varied assortment of doorstops, desk pieces, bookends and wall plaques were turned out by the youngsters' skillful hands. Useful projects for the kitchen were also included in the program; a device for hanging potholders, a knife-rack, and a handy stand for paper and pencil. The boys and girls have finished off their projects with an assortment of gay colors and designs.

Just as important is the program of girls' crafts, directed by Miss Gladys Forbush. There is a constant interest in the handwork, which is carried on during each of the three daily sessions. The demand for material is still strong on the part of the children ranging in age from four to sixteen years. And the interest is as keen in boys as in girls. Some of the best athletes have participated in this program.

Gimp braided into bracelets, keychains, and lanyards in the most popular craft, closely followed by potholder weaving. Washable stuffed animals and wastebaskets made of large ice cream cartons covered with gay wall-paper are more time consuming, but nevertheless well liked.

Of course embroidery is as much in demand as ever, among the favorites being dish towels, bibs, potholders, and samplers. Articles of felt — purses shaped like cats and elephants make a big hit as do felt catnip mice.

Interest in the craft program has been increasing to an amazing degree this year, and it has been difficult to keep the eager, outstretched hands filled with the necessary material.

Miss Gerie Beale and Mr. Frank Fessenden are the instructors on Angier Playground who have directed the unusual program of craft work.

Among the boys and girls who have participated in the craft program are:

Birmingham (SF) — Average person in the U.S. uses 30 pounds of textiles each year.

A Typical Day At The Carr Playground

The typical day at Carr Playground would find happy faces engaged in various activities. One group would be playing in the sand box building castles, while the other "small fries" would be playing locomotive down the slide. In another corner some would be playing checkers, or parchessi, or pollyanna. One would only have to see the holes underneath the swings to know that feet had been swinging back and forth during the entire day. Of course, Mrs. Wolcott may be seen busily handing out material and collecting money for the same, however, she always ends up on the shorter end of the deal. Over on the far corner of the playground, one can hear the clang clang of the horse shoes, and above these noises "Del" saying, "It's a ring, we take." Naturally Toody doesn't agree, but it's only a game. Still another popular activity is folk dancing for the smaller girls, under Betty Farrell and Nancy Cummings' instruction. The smaller children also have a special story hour every other Wednesday morning and Red Cross swimming instruction every Tuesday morning.

Woodcraft, also, has become very popular with both boys and girls. Dudley Taw made a tea pot for mother; Gerry is busily finishing Sneezy — her dwarf for the front lawn; Gina just completed her doorstop; Civetti is getting his bread board painted; Kevan wove a bracelet for his baby sister and made a tie rack for Dad; and Paul may be seen working on his horse; These are only mentioning some of the many craft accomplishments under Mr. John Mantenuto, the instructor. On the day of the ball games, the girls are always seen cheering the boys on to victory. Of course, the boys also cheered vehemently for their favorite girls to "hit a homer" on the day that the girls had a game. This fine spirit of cooperation has brought each sport championship to Carr. To add a little variety, they had the bicycle safety program for both boys and girls. In this, prizes were awarded not only for riding but also for displaying the correct signals.

Another extra-curricular activity was the day trip to Norumbega Park. There, a happy day was spent both by the 35 children and the two instructors Betty and Nancy. Not even the rain could dampen their pleasure. More details may be had from Mary Oliveri or Shirley or Anne about that famous Nantasket trip. Perhaps you prefer a boy's opinion. If so, ask "Del" or Toody, or Doc about their new-made acquaintances. Inter-city telephone calls have been frequent ever since. Sometimes one wonders how so many children can become only 12 years old on the day of the boat trip. More details about age may be had from Mrs. Wolcott or Johnny, who accompanied the children. The ever popular beach slogan was, "Has anybody seen Tommy Gately or Phil DeStefano." However, the special treats have not yet ended. Next week there is to be a family supper on the playground, attended by both the children and the parents.

Looking over the field today the air is filled with football. The future prospects of Newton High look very encouraging as the passes of Kenny and Buddy are thrown, and Mike's and Jerry's kicks are received.

Throughout the entire program, however, the playground is very much indebted to Mrs. Hovgaard for her fine supervision and advice. Now all eyes are pointed toward the annual field day in which there will be exhibited the entire craft work.

Throughout the entire program the daily attendance has been very gratifying. This is an indication that the activities found on this playground have been very popular with the children. Let us hope that they remain so in the future.

POLITICAL OVERTONES

Democratic Party Faces Scarcity of Top Candidates ... Few in Sight as Possibilities for 1954 Election ...

It seems that it's either feast or famine for the Democratic party in Massachusetts, when it comes to counting the outstanding candidates for high public offices. From an over-abundance of ambitious and energetic leaders, the Bay State Democrats have seen the picture change in a period of less than a year to the point that they now don't know where their next candidate for Governor is coming from.

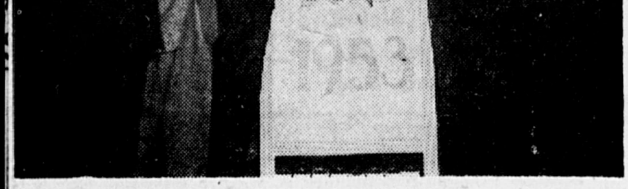

The colorful, ebullient Maurice J. Tobin—the man expected to lead the Democratic party in Massachusetts next year—is dead.

Ex-Governor Paul A. Dever has told intimate friends that he is more interested in continuing the practice of law than in returning to the political wars.

John F. Kennedy is in the U. S. Senate and isn't likely to run for anything for another five years.

John B. Hynes has declared flatly that he proposes to concentrate on his own job as Mayor of Boston and has no intention of running for State-wide office in 1954.

Richard Preston Speaks on Mass Commerce Dept.

Tracing the development of the new Massachusetts state Department of Commerce from its coming into being this spring, Richard Preston, department chief, spoke before members of Newton Rotary Club at their meeting held Monday at 12:15 p.m. at Brae Burn Country Club.

Work in the department has been divided in three sections, according to Mr. Preston, research, planning, and development, each under a section head. "The whole department was created to serve all the people of the Commonwealth," Mr. Preston stated. "We want to encourage our people to talk with a quiet confidence about Massachusetts as a place to work and live and to own businesses."

Stating the fact that the state is moving ahead in diversified industry, Mr. Preston cited advances in plastics and electronics. Service, coordination, and promotion were listed as methods of work.

"Local chambers of commerce are to be encouraged," Mr. Preston said. "Together we want to invite people to 'set up shop' and become a part of our economy," Mr. Preston said.

The speaker is a Harvard graduate, a former executive of the United Fruit Company. During World War II, he was an intelligence officer in the Navy.

Presiding at the meeting was Charles E. Hilliard, president of Newton Rotary club. Stuart Spaulding introduced the speaker. Visiting Rotarians were introduced by Richard J. White, vice-president. Mr. Spaulding also made an announcement in regard to the "good luck" farewell for the Newton Little League baseball team which left for the national tournament Sunday night.

To Dr. and Mrs. Howard A. Blazer (Deborah Loitman Barron) of Newton, a third child, second daughter, Sally Barron Blazer, August 10 at Richardson House. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Barron Jr., of Brookline, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Blazer of Providence, R. I.

Miss Eleanor D. Leahy

Is Awarded Physical Therapy Scholarship by National Group

Miss Eleanor D. Leahy of 147 Sumner street, Newton Centre has been awarded a scholarship in physical therapy under the nationwide professional training program sponsored by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. It was announced today by Bill MacKay, chairman of the Middlesex County Chapter of the March of Dimes organization.

Miss Leahy will study at New York University, New York City, an institution approved for this type of training by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association.

In announcing the award, Mr. MacKay stated that Miss Leahy is one of 155 residents of Massachusetts to receive a scholarship since the National Foundation began its physical therapy program in 1942 to combat a critical shortage of trained therapists. The awards are made upon recommendation of a professional committee.

The National Foundation has awarded 1,925 scholarships in this field to date. It is estimated that there is an immediate need for 2,500 physical therapists to meet the increased demand for their professional services, and that at least 15,000 additional therapists will be needed within the next ten years. Since 1942 more than $2,600,000 in March of Dimes funds has been allocated to support the physical therapy scholarship and teaching fellowship program.

Although physical therapists trained under the National Foundation program are not required to confine their work to the treatment of infantile paralysis, many of them are employed in that field. Others are available for polio epidemic emergencies.

Miss Isabel Monzert Marries Mr. Cogswell in Church Ceremony

At a family wedding in the First Unitarian Church of Newton, West Newton, last Saturday afternoon, Miss Isabel Frances Monzert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard A. Monzert of 280 Highland avenue, West Newton, was married to Mr. Donald Allan Cogswell, son of Mr. John A. Cogswell of North Scituate and the late Mrs. Cogswell. The Rev. John Ogden Fisher performed the 5 o'clock double ring ceremony and a reception followed at the Woodland Golf Club, Auburndale.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of nylon tulle fashioned with appliqued leaves across the shirred bodice and down the side of the bouffant skirt. A family heirloom veil of Princess lace was caught to a wreath of tiny orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Miss Anne Monzert was maid of honor for her sister. She carried a basket of tallman roses and ivy with her ballerina-length gown of foam green nylon tulle, matching bolero and headress. Identically gowned and carrying a basket of yellow roses and ivy was another sister, Miss Ethel Monzert, the bridesmaid.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Monzert was gowned in rose-beige chiffon with a rose-beige headpiece and wore a brown orchid corsage.

Mr. Robert Cogswell of Boston was best man for his brother. The ushers were Mr. John Cogswell, Jr., of Dedham, another brother, and Mr. David Dennison of Newton Centre.

The bride attended Wheaton College and was graduated from Katharine Gibbs School. The bridegroom, who served with the Coast Guard during World War II, was graduated from Babson Institute of Business Administration.

After a wedding trip to New York state and Canada, they will live in Boston.

Watch Your Trash

Governor Christian A. Herter and Massachusetts Public Works Commissioner John A.
Volpe indicated this week that they are becoming increasingly disturbed over the amount of trash being thrown on State highways by motorists.

The record volume of traffic this summer has aggravated these conditions and has made it almost impossible for the Public Works Department maintenance crews to cope with.

Commissioner Volpe has added many signs to the highways indicating that the littering of the roads is a direct violation of the State law. However, this has not resulted in abatement of the nuisance. Of particular concern is the fact that trash on the highways undisturbedly effects the accident rates and, in addition, trash breeds rats
which cause considerable damage in houses
which are located near State highways.

With the additional thousands of motor cars which will be on the highways over the Labor Day weekend, Commissioner Volpe
now issues another plea to riders, asking that they cooperate by throwing any trash
in the bins provided in many locations along the State highways.

Don't Abandon Them

Carlton E. Buttrick, president, Animal Rescue League of Boston, today issued an appeal to pet owners not to abandon their animals when vacation time is over. He urged that all animals, including unwanted strays, be adequately provided for rather than letting them face starvation or possible injury if abandoned.

Many pets are taken along on vacation trips only to become separated from their owners in the confusion of packing to go home, Mr. Buttrick said. Animals, particularly cats, seem to sense that something is amiss, and may try to hide from the upsetting strangeness. At departure time they can not be found and are unintentionally left behind to become strays or nuisances in an unfamiliar neighborhood.

Mr. Buttrick suggested that the animal be kept in, or at least kept close watch of,
the day prior to leaving. If the pet were inadvertently lost in spite of these precautions,
the owner should notify and keep in touch with local authorities such as the humane society and police officials in the area. In the event that he should become lost, don't give up hope—your dog won't.

Above all, Mr. Buttrick urged pet owners to turn unwanted animals over to the animal welfare organization in their locality where
a new home may be found for the animal
if he is suitable, or where he may be humanely put to sleep.

Check-up on Their Health

Schoolbells will be ringing soon for some 630,000 Bay State youngsters, so now is the time for a complete health checkup, the state health department advised today.

Especially for tots entering school for the first time, declared Dr. R. Gerald Rice, director of the division of maternal and child health, a thorough physical and dental checkup is recommended. In this way, he pointed out, if any treatment is required,
it can be completed before school starts and without handicapping the child later.

Dr. Rice also offered the following suggestions for mothers sending their children
to school for the first time.

1. See that youngsters are protected against smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough, and lockjaw. The immunization your child received as an infant may have "worn off" or perhaps you may have neglected to have re-enforcing booster shots. Remember that in the classroom and on the playground, close contact of children greatly increases their risk of exposure to communicable diseases.

2. Get your youngsters up early enough to eat a hearty breakfast without rushing.
One out of four children fails to eat a sufficiently nourishing breakfast to get him
through the morning's activities.

3. If a hot lunch isn't available at school, pack an attractive, well-balanced meal. This should supply about one-third of the day's food requirements and should include milk.

4. Don't expect tots to know the dangers of crossing busy streets and careless motorists. These are dangers he will be exposed to for the first time. Yours is the responsibility for teaching safety habits which, like good manners, should become automatic. Walk with your children over the route to school beforehand; teach them
how to cross streets heavy with traffic the proper way. While you are with them, let them judge speeds of cars. If necessary, you teach them also how to walk safely along

the side of a country road.

5. In stormy weather, be sure your youngsters wear rubbers, raincoats, or other water-shedding outer garments.

6. Don't let your child overdo television watching time at night. Every child needs at least 10 hours sleep. Get children up early enough so they don't have to rush to school. A child who dashes to school, afraid of being late, not only is more likely to get into an accident but is not in the right frame of mind for classroom work when he or she gets there.

7. If your child is ill, forget about the gold star for perfect attendance and keep him home from school.

8. Help tiny kindergarteners over the often difficult first day at school by teaching them independence in what appears like little matters. Teach tots to give their full names and addresses, to put on their own wraps, and to get along with children of their own age without adults to settle their differences. These little accomplishments are very important to the young child and should help him get started at school "on the right foot."

And that pretty well skims the cream
from the top of the Democratic bottle in Massachusetts save for Congressman John W. McCormack, whose ambition undoubtedly is to help his party regain control of the national House of Representatives so that he might return to his former role of majority leader.

There are promising young men coming along in the State's Democratic party, but few of them have advanced to the point where they can be regarded as gubernatorial timber.

Unless ex-Governor Dever is persuaded
to change his mind, the present indications are that next year's Democratic nominee for Governor will be either State Treasurer Foster
Furcolo or Middlesex County Sheriff
Howard W. Fitzpatrick, probably Furcolo.
Congressman Philip J. Philbin has pretty well established himself as a candidate for Senator, and except for the possibility that Dever might step into the Senate race, Phil-bin's only primary opposition is likely to come from James M. Curley who three months from now will observe his 79th birthday.

Most political observers realize that a Democratic State ticket headed by Philbin and Furcolo, from central and western Massachusetts, would lack geographical balance and would require a tremendous buildup in the populous Greater Boston area.

The likelihood is that the Democratic politicians will seek to solve their party's predicament by attempting to draft Mayor Hynes next spring as a candidate for Governor, but Hynes, who is not politically ambitious and has no burning desire to sit in the Governor's chair, would not be easily pushed into the race and probably would reject any draft overtures.

One of the reasons for the plight of the Democratic party and its present apparent
lack of outstanding candidates is that while
Mr. Dever was Governor the party in this State was run pretty much as a one-man show.

The Democratic members in the State Legislature were expected to follow the Governor's bidding unquestioningly. The vast majority of them did. Attempts were made to purge those who displayed any independence, and in some cases the efforts were successful.

At last year's Democratic national convention, most of the Bay State delegates were simply rubber stamps who waited for Mr. Dever's instructions on how to cast their votes and then followed them.

That may be good politics, and it helped to achieve the nomination of Adlai Stevenson, which was Dever's objective, but it isn't the kind of politics that produces new young leaders.

Two Democrats, both able politicians,
one of whom might be the Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor next year, are Congressman Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr., of Cambridge, former Speaker in the Massachusetts House of Representatives, and Governor's Councillor Patrick J.
Sonny McDougough of Dorchester.

After four years as Speaker, O'Neill is now a freshman member of Congress, and McDougough is the only Democratic member of the Executive Council. O'Neill was mentioned earlier in the year as a possible candidate for Governor, but that talk gradually petered out.

From a Democratic standpoint the picture is not a particularly bright or attractive
one. State Auditor Thomas J. Buckley and Secretary of State Edward J. Cronin have not even been considered by political observers for higher places on next year's Democratic State ticket.

Former Attorney General Francis E.
Kelly reportedly has informed friends that he may attempt a political comeback next year and that he may be a candidate for Governor. But after the margin by which Kelly lost to Attorney General George Fin-gold that is hardly news which is likely to strike fear in the Republican camp.

Perhaps the Democrats will come up with one or more outstanding personalities in the next 12 months. Right now, however,
the field of possibilities appears rather lean.

From the various political rumblings it is gradually becoming evident that all is not serene and harmonious between two prominent Democratic figures named Adlai Stevenson and Harry Truman.

Stevenson is now preparing to assume the role of titular leader in the Democratic party, but a number of the Trumanites have quietly let it be known that they regard Harry and not Adlai as the head man in their party and that they have no intention of following Adlai's leadership.

- The American Jewish Community -

By RABBI ALBERT I. GORDON

(Editor's Note: This article is a condensation of the lecture delivered at the B'nai Brith Institute of Judaism, August 5 to 9, at Wildacres, North Carolina, by Rabbi Gordon. Ten B'nai Brith Institutes of Judaism were held this summer in various parts of the United States and Europe.
Rabbi Gordon is spiritual leader of the Congregation Emanuel, Newton Centre.)

The creative survival of the Jew and Judaism in America is,
by no means, assured. The general weakening of the religious base of Jewish life—a characteristic too of our Western Civilization—has resulted in an emphasis upon material things. The "aristocracy of learning" of Jewish people has all too frequently been supplanted by an "aristocracy of wealth." Material success was most often a means towards an end in our grandparents' generation. Today it has, in ever increasing degree, become
the end in itself.

Believing in its infallibility because of its material success,
American Jewish leadership
often lacks the knowledge, the vision or the humility to serve the best interests of our people.
To put it charitably, far too
many persons who regard themselves as Jewish leaders are inadequately informed concerning the Jewish past, do not see Jewish life as a whole, and, as a consequence, do not understand the need for constructive, integrated planning for the Jewish future.

Though we are becoming increasingly aware of the problem
on a community-wide basis, we are still doing an inadequate job

in Jewish education. Ours is still a Sunday School oriented system.
Over 90 per cent of Jewish children of high school age do not receive any Jewish education
But 38.8 per cent of the total Jewish school enrollment attends Hebrew schools.

The problem of intermarriage
is becoming increasingly serious.
What few studies that have been made on the subject indicate that at least 6 per cent of all American Jews are intermarried.
There are strong indications that this rate is likely to increase.

There are, of course, certain factors which appear to be favorable for our creative survival.
Among them are the narrowing of differences among American Jews. That is, more American Jews are thinking, acting and holding to a core of values in common. The values, in certain respects different from those held in the past, are nevertheless sources of potential strength.
The growing lines of indistin-guish between Jews who call themselves Orthodox, Reform or Conservative is likely to make for a healthy unity of purposes as contrasted with an unwholesome uniformity.

Though present-day leadership
is often weak, improperly motivated and inadequately prepared for its tasks, there appears to be an ever-increasing number of up-
and-coming laymen who are beginning to challenge their leaders. These younger men and women—recognizing the dynamic nature of Judaism, unafraid of change if it means growth and development, aware of the need for spiritualizing their lives as well as those of their fellow-Jews, ardent devotees of the democratic way of life, thinking
in terms of the Jewish Community as the instrument through which their lives can be enhanced, and determined to make their synagogues and temples the spiritual reservoir of their lives and the lives of their children—possess the will to live as Jews. The State of Israel has helped us, no end, to develop this kind of Jew.

Let us not write the American Jew as a failure simply because he is, in many respects, different from his European grandfathers.
We are presently entering upon
the second half of the twentieth century with greater opportunities than we have ever enjoyed before to assure the creative survival of the American Jew.

fourth when he developed a streak of wildness, passing two,
and loading up the bases as a result on Newton's only hit of the game by third baseman Russo.
However, with the chips down,
Buchheim got a hold of himself
and struck out two in the inning.
In the second and sixth innings Buchheim was at his best, striking out the side in each of these innings.

Donnellan, Newton's catcher,
was forced to leave the game
after being hit a glancing blow
in the head by the batter who was swinging his bat. John Gill came in from first to replace Donnellan and Tom Geary finished out the game at first base.

The game was played before a near capacity crowd and proved to be a highly interesting, tense game to watch. Newton, in losing, proved to all that it possesses a mighty fine ball team and the boys did themselves proud. With just a little more luck, they could have won. But that is baseball.

Play by innings
Newton, With the count 3 and 2, Sealey struck out. Russo, next up, bunted down the third base line and was thrown out at first. Buchheim retired the side by striking out Woodlock. No hits, no runs, no errors.
Schenectady, McKee hit at first. Barberli, the next batter, hit a sharp
line drive to center field for a single.
He then bunted back to the pitcher's
box and beat Barberli to the bag.
On a slow tap to Sealey, Musculi
gave the first hit of the game as Sealey held the ball. On the next pitch,
Musculi broke for second and on a
perfect throw by Donnellan, was out
at second. 1 hit, no runs, no errors.

Second Inning
Newton, After running the count
even, Fitzpatrick struck out. Russo followed suit and was called out on strikes. Buchheim completed a masterful job by fanning Gill for the third strikeout of the inning. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Schenectady, Ferrara struck out.
With the count three and two, Sealey struck out. Decker, Constantino hit a bouncing ball to Woodlock who fired
the ball to Gill for the third out. No hits, no runs, no errors.

Third Inning
Newton, Donnellan hit a hard, sharp
grounder to Constantino, who scooped it up and threw to first for the out.
York struck out. Buchheim makes McKee strike out. Russo, next up, hit a slow tap to Sealey, Musculi
gave the first hit of the game as Sealey held the ball. On the next pitch,
Musculi broke for second and on a
perfect throw by Donnellan, was out
at second. 1 hit, no runs, no errors.

Fourth Inning
Newton, Sealey, first up and a strikeout victim on his first appearance at the plate, drew a base on balls to open up the inning. Russo, with Sealey on first, hit a slow bounding ball
down the first base line for Newton's
first hit and Sealey went to second.
Constantino hit a grounder to third base and Sealey beat the throw to third, loading up the bases with no
hits, no runs, no errors.

WTAG, CAMBRIDGE, has been assigned TV channel 36 in the ultra high frequency spectrum. The WTAG-TV transmitter will be located on ZION
ST., Woburn, 625 feet above sea level,
from where it will command an unobstructed air-way to the southwest.
A test pattern will go on the air August 31st and stationing is for September 28th. The station will be a Dumont type network affiliate with initial operating approximately 3 P.M. to 12 P.M.

We cannot tell you how good reception from this station will be until it actually goes on the air and we have been able to check various locations and equipment in the field under actual operating conditions. We do know, of course, that you will need a new strip tuner or all-channel converter and a special antenna element with a separate lead-in wire to your set everything will be much more critical and difficult because of the very high frequencies involved. Which strip, converter or antenna we will recommend will depend upon the results of our research in these first few weeks.

For this reason, it will be appreciated if all interested will restrain their orders for UHF conversions until mid-September at which time we will be in a better position to supply the best possible service, materials or advice.

one out. With the count three and two, Fitzpatrick worked Buchheim for a base on balls, forcing in Sealey with a run, the first of the game. Ryan fanned. Gill hit to Buchheim who threw to the plate getting Russo, with Gill beating out an attempted double play.
Buchheim, with three men still on base,
struck out Donnellan, the ninth strikeout victim of Buchheim. One hit, one run, no errors.

Schenectady, McKee worked Sealey
for a base on balls. Barberli grounded to Russo who threw to second getting McKee at second. Musculi then hit a double and Barberli went all the way around scoring. Ferrara then hit to Sealey who threw him out at first and on the play Musculi broke for the plate and Gill fired a strike to Donnellan who put the ball on Musculi for the out, completing a double play. One hit, one run, no errors.

Fifth Inning
Newton, York hit sharply to Musculi
who gunned the throw to Constantino for the out. McKee walked. In an attempted bunt, Sealey popped up in the air and Bill Musculi caught it. Two outs. McKee, after the ball went by the catcher, was out stealing. Ferrara to Constantino. No hits, no runs, no errors.
Schenectady, Time called as Decker
in going all the way around swinging,
hit Sammy Donnellan on the head.
Donnellan was taken out of the game.
John Gill went in to catch and Tom Geary replaced McKee at first base.
On a hard drive by Constantino, Sealey knocked the ball down and got the batter at first.
McKee got a base on balls. Constantino hits a ground ball to York who tossed to Woodlock who threw the ball to ged out by Woodlock. No hits, no runs, no errors.

Sixth Inning
Newton, Russo, leading off the sixth

"And we're supposed to sleep," said goggle-eyed Buddy Russo, the team's star outfielder, and that just about summed up the sentiment of the fourteen youngsters for parents and friends had been asked not to go into the

South Station to bid the team farewell in order that the boys would relax and go to sleep prior to the departure of the train which was to carry them to New York on the first leg of their journey.

In addition there were speeches by public officials and Little League officials and every member of the club was presented a fountain pen, toothbrush, toothpaste, traveling kit and an autographed picture of Billy Goodman, Red Sox infielder who lives in West Newton.

The team arrived in New York Monday morning at 5:45 but the boys were permitted to sleep until 7 and they were then taken to breakfast, following which they boarded the 8:05 train for Williamsport and arrived there about 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. They were scheduled to play their first series game Tuesday afternoon against the Schenectady, N. Y. team.

The Newton Northerners are the first team ever to represent Massachusetts in the Little League World Series and they are the champions of Region 2, consisting of Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

The team as a whole was presented a dozen baseballs and bats by the Newton Chamber of Commerce and the city's Junior Chamber presented the boys with a big-league traveling bag. The team is under the care of Manager Mike Plantadosi, Coach Tom Urell and Commissioner Jim Murphy. The players who made the trip are Fran Donnellan, Dave Seeley, John Gill, Al York, Billy Woodcock, Dom "Buddy" Russo, Bob Fitzpatrick, Sam McLary, Francis "Buddy" Ryan, Frank Coven, John McMullen, Mike Keenan, Tom Geary and John Greene.

The players were tired but happy, when they arrived at Williamsport Monday and the train-ride was a new experience for the boys. On arrival they were given new uniforms with Massachusetts inscribed on the front.

In addition they were given a royal reception and all the boys were presented tiny baseballs and bats as mementoes. Monday night they were given a buffet supper and then taken to the movies.

Washington State to Be Home of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Crafts

At a double ring ceremony in Meditation Chapel at Boston University last Friday, Miss Elinor Ruth Olson of Boston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sigfred Olson of Napa, Calif., became the bride of Mr. William B. Crafts of 21 Blithedale street, Newtonville, son of Mrs. A. M. Crafts of Newtonville and Mr. Ronald D. Crafts of Wellesley. Performing the 4 p.m. double ring ceremony was Boston University's President Harold C. Case.

In a light blue street-length dress of taffeta overlaid with lace, a full skirt and a lace jacket, the bride was given in marriage by her mother. She wore a crownless hat of matching lace with a flat bow and velvet ribbon streamers. Tiny pink sweetheart rosebuds made up her bouquet.

Miss Jane Brown of Newtonville, wore a pink organza eyelet gown and carried a bouquet of blue delphiniums and scabiosa, as maid of honor.

Mrs. Olson, the bride's mother, wore a street-length aqua crepe dress trimmed with lace and Mrs. Crafts chose an aqua linen dress with a bead embroidered neckline.

Mrs. Joseph W. Brooks of Weathersfield, Conn., cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

After a wedding trip to Washington state by way of Niagara Falls and Yellowstone Park, Mr. and Mrs. Crafts will live at Waller Hall, Washington State College, Pullman, Wash., starting September 10. Mr. Crafts will be head resident of Waller Hall. He holds a B.A. from Brown University in Providence and his wife holds a B.S. from Stanford University School of Nursing in San Francisco. They both received Master's degrees in Education last Saturday.

Rep. Rawson Says State Surplus Real

"The recent announcement by Governor Herter of a surplus of $12 million six hundred thousand is good news to all of us," stated Representative George E. Rawson this week, "because it is our actual surplus in the general fund of the Commonwealth."

"The preceding administration," he continued, "claimed a surplus of $15 million, but it was only a bookkeeping surplus in the General Fund, obtained by taking $11 million from the Veterans Services Fund and $4 million six hundred thousand from the Port of Boston Fund, monies which had been earmarked for these specific purposes. It was the old game of 'robbing Peter to pay Paul,' just fooling the people."

In concluding his remarks, Rep. Rawson said: "Gov. Herter started from scratch, restored the amounts which had been taken from the special funds, paid off a lot of obligations left by the preceding administration, and spent $9 million less than Dever and Co., did. $6 and a half million were saved by prudent administration of state departments so that they returned to the treasury, $2 million more than had been expected. Tax revenues were $3 million more than had been estimated. Department revenues increased $1 and a half million. These figures add up to $12, six hundred thousand cash in the till—real cash actually there. It's a great satisfaction to members of the House and Senate who like myself, have always fought for economy and have always voted for it to have had the opportunity of at last serving with an administration which has kept faith with the taxpayers. We are proud of Gov. Herter and his substantial accomplishments. In my opinion still greater achievements lie ahead."

Warren H. Burroughs, 34 Brentwood avenue, has recently joined the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company as a life underwriter. He is associated with the company's Richard W. Partridge agency in Boston.

Files Bill To Have List of Stocks Printed

Representative George E. Rawson has filed with the clerk of the House of Representatives, a bill to require the Bank Commissioner to publish each year a list of the commercial banks and capital stock fire insurance companies whose stocks are legal investment for Massachusetts Savings Banks. The Commissioner now publishes a list of the corporations whose bonds the savings banks are permitted to buy.

Recent acts allow these banks to invest in the stocks of commercial banks which measure up to certain standards and in the stocks of the ten strongest capital stock fire insurance companies.

This bill seeks to add to the published list the names of these commercial banks and insurance companies. It should be a convenient help to both the savings banks and to those investment men who sell securities to them.

For The Fourth Consecutive Year

Dr. Solomon Grayzel to Assist At Temple Emanuel Holy Days

Dr. Albert I. Gordon, Rabbi of Temple Emanuel, Newton Centre, will be assisted during the coming High Holy Days for the fourth successive year by Dr. Solomon Grayzel of Philadelphia.

Dr. Grayzel is the Editor of the Jewish Publication Society of America and an historian of note. He is recognized as one of America's outstanding Jewish scholars and lecturers. Dr. Grayzel was ordained as Rabbi by the Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

Mr. Morton Shames, a graduate of the Boston University School of Music and presently enrolled at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America where he is preparing for his Doctorate at the Cantors' Institute, will join with Cantor Gabriel Hochberg of Temple Emanuel in officiating at the Services.

Dr. Grayzel will alternate with Dr. Gordon in conducting the High Holy Day Services in the Main Synagogue and in the new Community Hall. The Cantors, too will alternate, as will their respective choirs. Mr. Louis Siagel is Choir Director and organists at these Services will be Mrs. Jacob Kaplan and Mr. Arthur Fultz.

The Temple, Community Hall, Chapel and Vestry of Temple Emanuel have recently been air-conditioned.

In addition to Adult Services, Youth Services are being planned as follows:

A Teen-Age Service for youth 14-17 years of age will be conducted in the Temple Chapel. Young people of the Congregation, directed by Mr. Sigmund Hellmann, Youth Director, will conduct this Service. Admission is by ticket only.

Children's Services under the direction of Dr. Martin Goldstein, Educational Director, will be held in the Vestry of the Temple for children aged 9-13.

A Special Service for students of grades 1-3 in the Sunday School and grade 1 of the Hebrew School will be led by Mrs. Edward Levens and will take place in the Nursery School rooms.

Polio Cases Total Six

In his weekly summary, Dr. Ernest M. Morris, director of public health, reports two new polio cases for the week ending August 14, to bring the total for the season here to six.

In his comment on the incidence of polio in Massachusetts, Dr. Morris pointed out that the number of cases has remained at the same level for four weeks and that, when the disease is not on the increase by the middle of August, the total cases for the year is comparatively low.

During the week ending August 14, there were 22 new cases in the state compared with 32 new cases during the corresponding week in 1952. The total to date for this year was 135 compared with 128 in 1952, Dr. Morris stated.

DR. SOLOMON GRAYZEL

Fund-

all the necessary doctors' care, diagnostic and laboratory studies, and even the specialized and costly medicines which are used. For those who cannot afford to pay, there is the "Jimmy Fund" which stands ready to receive and so pass on the results of generosity to the Children's Cancer Research Foundation. Not one penny has ever been charged to the parents of children receiving treatment from the "Jimmy Fund."

Enough praise cannot be given to these Research Laboratory Men who are doing so much to track down and eliminate cancer. Nor can enough praise be given to the Newton Police Department who are giving of their time and energies to assist in the "Jimmy Fund Drive." Cancer can strike everyone. Race, color, and creed are no barrier to this dread disease. When you see the "Jimmy Fund Baseball Bank" please drop in a coin, and help kill cancer. The 1953 "Jimmy Fund" drive starts Sunday, September 6th, and runs for two weeks, ending September 19th.

crease would net the hospital an additional $19,000, if it were to become operative August 1. But since the new rates will not go into effect until September, the net increase will be proportionally smaller.

Even with the new salary schedules, the hospitals of the state cannot wholly compete with private industry. Many people who work in hospitals find an important part of their reward comes from a feeling of service to others. But it is manifestly unfair to expect hospital personnel to carry this self-sacrifice to extremes. Before World War II, salary levels in hospitals were far below industrial norms. Increasing competition from industry and a recognition of the daily needs of hospital employees has produced a healthy increase in wage and salary levels so that the hospitals now more nearly meet the returns offered elsewhere. These necessary increases have made very real problems for the managers and trustees of hospitals, however, for where salaries formerly accounted for about 1/3 of a normal hospital operating budget, they now account for almost two-thirds of the total running expense of the community hospital. Other expenses have gone ahead in a corresponding rapid manner.

Said Dr. T. Stewart Hamilton, Director of the Newton-Wellesley, in commenting on the rate increases, "No hospital likes to be forced to raise its rates. On the other hand, we cannot operate at a loss. Our suppliers insist on being paid regularly. The people of the communities which we serve have come to expect a high standard of care from us. To fail to maintain those high standards would be to fail in our duty to the community. Our only alternative is to seek the necessary support from those who use the hospital in sharing our added costs by this modest rate advance."

Nomination Papers Filed By Hodgdon

Walter A. Hodgdon on Monday morning, filed his nomination papers for Mayor with City Clerk Frank Grant.

In announcing the filing of his papers, Mr. Hodgdon said: "I am seeking the office of mayor of Newton as an independent candidate in a non-partisan election and I am in the contest to stay."

The city election will be held November 3 and although candidates have until September 8 to file their papers, Mr. Hodgdon stated that he had filed many more signatures than are required in order to qualify as a candidate.
